10 of 20 Experts Agree With Books On Labor Victory

Current Betting Shows British Tories Gaining

LONDON (AP)—Ten of 20 political experts in Britain forecast a Labor victory in Thursday's general election. Six see a Conservative win.

Four say the race is so close they wouldn't hazard a guess. All foresee a narrow margin for whichever party wins. The Associated Press sought the views of 18 of the country's leading political journalists and the strategists of the two principal minority parties.

Both Labor and Conservatives predict victories for their side, in statements put out for home consumption.

Of the 20 polled, seven said their forecasts might well be upset by political oratory in the closing days of the campaign. Bookmakers' odds still favor Labor.

Douglas Stuart Ltd., one of Britain's biggest bookmaking houses, quoted four to six on Labor (you bet $6 to win $4); six to five against Conservatives. Stuart's odds had narrowed from four to seven on Labor, reflecting a growing confidence among Conservative bettors.

EDITOR'S OPINION

The experts' forecasts included: Kingsley Martin, editor of the pro-Labor New Statesman and Nation, influential weekly journal of opinion—a Labor majority.

Frederick Tomlinson, news editor of the Sunday Observer, pro-Labor: "The situation is 'extremely fluid.' I do not know what the result will be."

Hyman Fagan, national election agent of the Communist Party: Labor will win with a majority of about 80 seats. Labor's majority in the 1945 elections was 191 seats.

James Sinclair, public relations officer of the Liberals: "No party is in a position to say it will win."

SLIGHT EDGE

Walter Taplin, assistant editor of the Spectator, right-wing weekly journal: "It looks at this moment like a very slight edge in favor of the Conservative Party."

William Allison, political correspondent of the pro-Tory Evening Standard: "I think the Tories will win."

T. R. Fyvel, Labor journalist: "A comparatively small majority for Labor."

Emrys Jones, associate editor of the Recorder, right-wing weekly newspaper: "The Tories will win—impressively."

Charles E. Gayton, Sunday Times, a Conservative paper: A Conservative majority of about 50 seats.

Asks 15,000 U.S. Troops Trained For Arctic War

DONJEK RIVER, Yukon (CP)—Lt. Gen. Stephen Chamberlain, overall head of Exercise Sweetbriar, says he feels the United States army should have three regimental combat teams—about 15,000 men—trained for Arctic warfare, but not necessarily stationed in Alaska.

The commander of the U.S. 5th Army is watching one battalion—about 800 men—of a regimental combat team based at Camp Carson, Colo., face up to sub-Arctic conditions in this joint Canadian-U.S. manoeuvre.

Gen. Chamberlain told a reporter in an interview he feels

200 ESCAPE FIRE ABOARD DANISH SHIP

Picked Up By Passing Liner From Lifeboats

COPENHAGEN, Denmark (AP)—Two hundred passengers abandoned the 3,038-ton Danish steamship Kronprins Olav in lifeboats early today after the vessel had caught fire on a trip from Oslo, a steamship line officer reported.

H. S. U. Garde, a director of United Steamships, said the Swedish Atlantic liner Stockholm had reached the burning ship seven miles off the Swedish coast.

Farsund Radio reported no casualties had been reported among the 200 passengers who were ordered over the side when a fire amidships got out of control.

The Kronprins Olav sails regularly between Copenhagen and Oslo. United Steamships reported all passengers had been picked up by the Stockholm, which went to the rescue while voyaging between Goeteborg and Copenhagen.

Some of the crew of the Kronprins Olav were reported still aboard the ship fighting the blaze.

The blaze was discovered seven miles off Kullen Peninsula, north of Haelsingborg, Sweden.

Cold Task For Soldiers In New Type Training

Vickers machine gun as the thermometer hit 40 below zero. The guns are cooled with a special anti-freeze mixture. The two infantrymen are Pte. R. E. Fleury, left, of Vancouver, and Cpl. C. H. Lock of Macklin, Sask.—(CP Photo)

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (AP)—The new chief of civilian defence in the United States was nominated for best supporting of possible atomic attack go underground or be widely scattered.

Dr. Paul J. Larsen will go to Washington Friday preliminary to taking over his post March 1.

He said he considered prompt defence measures for the United States capital his most urgent duty.

Reds Massing Near Hongkong

HONGKONG (AP)—Informed foreign sources said today the Chinese Communists have massed more than 25,000 troops on the Hongkong-China border during the last three weeks.

They said the 41st and 42nd Communist armies under generals Wu Yuan-mau and Sung Chih-hung were concentrated less than five miles from the border.

Maj. W. Billett, British army spokesman, said, "The situation on the border is the same as it was two weeks ago. We have no further comment."

There has been much speculation whether the Reds would try to take Hongkong.

Britain has about 40,000 crack troops in the territory along and below the border. It is said to be heavily fortified.

In addition Britain has a fair amount of land-based planes in the colony and several warships in the harbor, including one aircraft carrier.

Churchill Can End Cold War 'Beaver' Says

LONDON (AP)—Lord Beaverbrook asserted Winston Churchill can end the atomic armaments race between the East and West because he enjoys the respect and regard of Joseph Stalin.

Lord Beaverbrook wrote in his Sunday Express that if Churchill were restored to power as Britain's Prime Minister a face-to-face meeting between the two would offer high hope of "peace and tranquility" for the world.

The Canadian-born press magnate urged British voters to give the Conservative Party a majority in the parliamentary election Thursday so Churchill can undertake the mission.

"We can count on the immense authority, the widespread popularity and complete trust enjoyed by him in the United States," Beaverbrook wrote.

"No other British statesman stands as high here," Churchill himself suggested in a speech at Edinburgh last Tuesday as a new high-level approach to the Kremlin for a pact to control the atom bomb, the hydrogen bomb and secret biological weapons which may prove more lethal than either.

Prime Minister Attlee and Foreign Secretary Bevin have said they consider the problem to be one for the United Nations.

Townsmen Cheer 'Mercy Killer'

MANCHESTER, N.H. (UP)—Townsmen cheered Dr. Hermann N. Sander today when he entered the court house and went on trial for his life on a charge of murdering out of "mercy" a patient on the verge of death from cancer.

Battle Reds

TAIPEI, Formosa (AP)—The Nationalist Defence Ministry today said 100,000 farmers revolted in the Tungting lake region of Hunan province killing many Communists.

The Ministry said the revolt was sparked by excessive requisitioning of rice by the Chinese Communists. The revolt occurred in the heart of the main rice growing district of China.

Budapest Spy Trials Over; Six Guilty

BUDAPEST (CP)—The trial of Robert A. Vogeler and six others on spy charges ended today, with the prosecution demanding "the most severe punishment." Court was adjourned until tomorrow, when the verdict will be read.

Vogeler, in an abject "last word statement" to the people's court, declared he had confessed to the charges without "any pressure or insults."

"I know I have to suffer punishment," the assistant vice-president of the International Telephone and Telegraph Company said, "but I hope the court will consider my request for a mild sentence and also the argumentation of my lawyer."

Prosecutor Gyula Alapi, the same man who prosecuted Joseph Cardinal Mindszenty and former vice-premier Laszlo Rajk, called Vogeler a great spy whose punishment should be commensurate with his deeds.

Alapi told the Peoples Court that Vogeler, 38-year-old assistant vice-president of the International Telephone and Telegraph Company "is a spy who lost and was unmasked."

Alapi made the charge after nine witnesses had paraded to the stand to testify that Vogeler and his co-defendants were guilty of sabotage and spying for the United States intelligence service.

It could not be learned immediately what possible penalties the defendants face. Vogeler, who has pleaded guilty, was described as "a great spy."

"The sentence should bring him the fate of such persons," said Alapi.

Vogeler asked for a mild sentence Saturday after pleading guilty.

Limps Into Port

NEW YORK (AP)—The U.S. destroyer Ludlow limped into port Saturday night with a load of navy reservists after she had blown a boiler off Cape May, N.J. The ship tied up more than 12 hours overdue on her return from a training cruise with the reservists from New England and New Jersey.

War Fears In America Eased By Dominicans

CIUDAD TRUJILLO, Dominican Republic (AP)—President Rafael Trujillo of the Dominican Republic has eased combat jitters in the Caribbean by asking his congress to revoke his extraordinary powers to declare war.

Trujillo requested these powers last month after he had accused Cuba, Haiti and Guatemala of harboring plotters against the Dominican Republic. The three countries denied his charges.

Trujillo said he was asking that his special powers be withdrawn to facilitate discussions as a means of solving Caribbean disputes.

He said that the withdrawal would aid the Organization of American States in its conciliatory efforts.

An O.A.S. committee returned to its Washington headquarters last week after an investigation of Trujillo's charges, and is preparing a report.

During the last three years two unsuccessful attempts to invade the Dominican Republic have been made by private armed groups, described as Dominican exiles and professional adventures.

Solves Epidemic of Downtown Robberies

Eight young suspects were either behind the bars at the city jail or being held at the Juvenile Detention Home today. Aged between 16 and 20 years, seven of the boys were rounded up by bity detectives Angus Munro and Louis Callan during the week-end as a result of their investigations into more than a score of shopbreaking, car stealing and safe-cracking cases in the city in the last few weeks.

First arrest was made by Esquimalt police. Detectives indicated the round-up was not completed. They have at least two or three other suspects, all in the 'teen-age class.

The investigators said they believed the arrested boys comprised a gang, with as many as five and six of them in on two of the breaking and entering cases.

Three of the boys will face the magistrate in the senior court as they are over 18 years of age. It is likely the remainder will be dealt with in Juvenile Court.

Car Stealing, Shop Break-ins

Detectives Callan and Munro said the arrested boys were responsible for one or two car stealing cases, but mostly shopbreaking. No dwelling house break-ins are involved.

The arrests clear up most of the robberies on the city police books for this year in the downtown section.

From evidence on the scenes of some of the crimes the detective branch was certain juveniles were responsible and for the last two weeks the two detectives worked constantly to solve the wave of burglaries.

Four of the boys were picked up in a group on a downtown street filled with shoppers Saturday afternoon, the others being tracked down by Sunday afternoon.

The investigators said Esquimalt police arrested one of the boys.

It was reported that five of the youthful robbers were in on the safe-cracking at McKenzie, White and Dunsmuir. With tools from the machine shop the bottom of the big strongbox was hacked open. About $98 was stolen.

Blamed For Safebreaking

The round-up is also said to have solved the safebreaking at the garage of Oliver and Lalonde. This safe was cut open with axes on the same week-end. Included is the unsuccessful attempt to get the safe open at Western Heating.

Arrests were said to have cleared up the theft of cars from National Motors and Olson Motors. In the latter case, the thieves returned the car to near where it was taken from after a 150-mile spin.

A half dozen of the youths are said to have been in the gang that raided Page the Cleaner's premises and stole clothing which had been left for cleaning. Some of the boys are believed to have been wearing clothes stolen there when arrested.

Other places the young thieves are believed to have forcibly entered and get very little for their efforts are:

Page's Pictorial Realty, Model Cleaners, Gibson's Studios and Countess de Charny chocolate shop, all in the 700 block of Fort Street; Ed and Don's Cafe, Old British Fish and Chip Shop, the Hat Shop, Thorburn's Garage, Island Weavers and Craigflower Store.

Mixed Weather Over Prairies Clears Again

WINNIPEG (BUP)—Mixed-up weather conditions that dumped snow, dust storms and warm chinooks on the prairies during the week-end cleared today.

Blizzards petered out today in Saskatchewan, Manitoba and northwestern Ontario. The warm chinooks and dust storms in southern Alberta ended and mild weather, between 30 and 40 degrees above zero, prevailed.

The storm was held indirectly responsible for the death of A. E. Ogilvie, superintendent of herd improvement services for the Saskatchewan government. He died Sunday after his car had bogged down in a snowdrift near Regina.

The blizzard cut off bus travel in Saskatchewan and cut plane traffic to a minimum. Winds reached a high of 52 miles an hour in parts of Saskatchewan Sunday. Visibility was as low as one-eighth of a mile in Regina at times.

STAGE SET FOR NEW COAL SHUTDOWN

Federal Judge Makes New Order Against Strike Until March 3

WASHINGTON (AP)—Federal Judge Richmond B. Keach today issued a new no-strike order against John L. Lewis and the United Mine Workers. It runs until March 3.

Keach has had a "stop-strike" order out since Feb. 11, but the 372,000 miners have ignored it.

Lewis himself has observed it to the extent of twice sending instructions to the miners that they should go back to work.

FINES POSSIBLE The miners' refusal to obey the order has the government casting about for possible new actions to get coal mined. One move that is a possibility is contempt action against the United Mine Workers. That could result in big fines on the union.

There has also been talk in Congress of legislation to let the government seize the mines. But Democratic leaders are not taking to that idea.

U.M.W. field workers and the rank and file say they do not believe the strikers will obey Lewis' new cease-strike command.

Few of the hundreds of U.M.W. locals voted on Lewis' back-to-work order during the week-end.

Of the 24 which did the vote was the same: "No contract, no work."

The 2,450-man Robena local at Masontown, Pa., set the pace in Pennsylvania where 55,000 diggers usually go along with Robena—the biggest U.M.W. local of them all.

Ten more locals in Pennsylvania also rejected Lewis' order. So did five in Colorado and four in Ohio.

And there were negative responses from Virginia, Illinois, New Mexico and Wyoming.

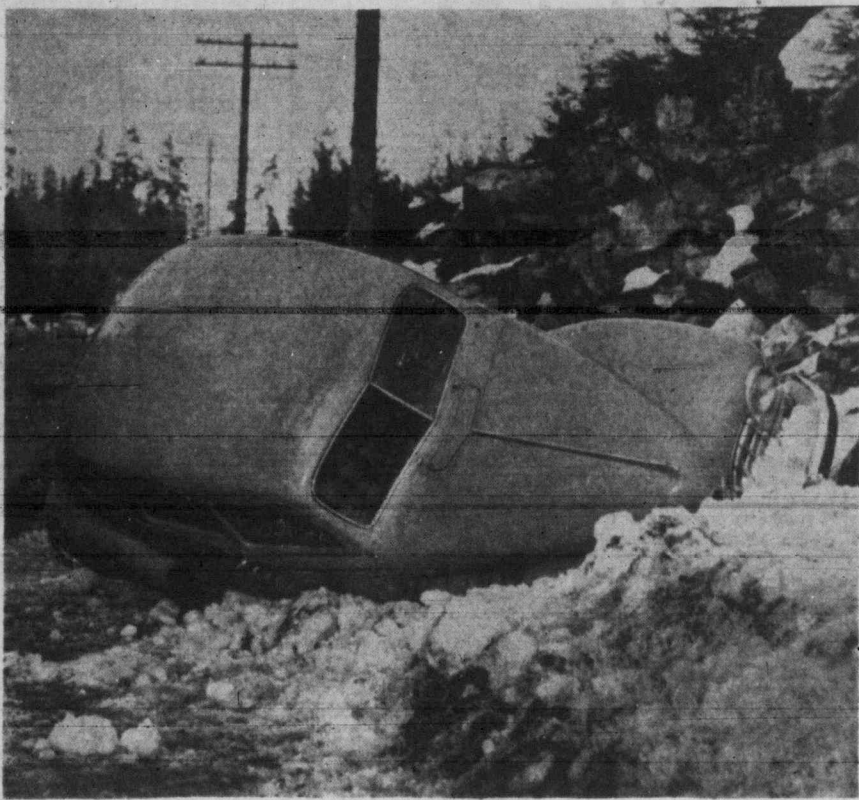

The locals represented about 15,000 miners.

Scores of other locals which met simply ignored the Lewis order.

President Truman said two weeks ago—and the White House repeated Saturday—that the President doesn't have seizure power now and doesn't want it.

ACTION URGED But the question of a contempt citation against the union was another matter entirely.

Some officials said there seemed no point in waiting longer to ask for court action. They called attention to estimates of less than a 10-day coal supply in the United States adding that it could take all week to complete a contempt proceeding.

SNOWBANK HAZARD TO DRIVER

Two men escaped injury on Island Highway Sunday when car wheel caught in snowbank and pulled vehicle over on its side at foot of Cousin's Hill. Donald K. McLeod of 1023 Dunsmuir Street, driver, was attempting to overtake another car when left front wheel caught in the snowbank. Neither he nor his passenger, Terry Burns, were hurt.

MAY PROBABLE FOR VOTE ON BEER PARLORS

Announcement Expected Before House Rises

Victoria electors on the provincial voters' list probably will go to the polls in May to say whether the Liquor Control Board should allow opening of beer parlors in downtown hotels.

The Provincial Cabinet is expected to act soon on a petition signed by over 35 per cent of the registered voters calling for a plebiscite on the sale of beer by the glass.

If Premier Johnson and his ministers leave it until the end of the current session of the Legislature before setting the date, the vote will not be taken before late in May or early in June.

It is possible, though, that an announcement will come before the House prorogues at the end of March or early in April. This being the case the plebiscite could be presented early in May.

SEEK EARLY VOTE

The Victoria Hotelmen's Association wants the vote to be taken as soon as possible and representations may be made to the cabinet for an early decision.

About six weeks must be allowed for electoral officers to prepare for the polling and the hotelmen are anxious to see the vote before spring and summer vacations start.

"We don't want it left until the people start going away on holidays," a spokesman for the association said.

TWO PREVIOUS VOTES

Two votes have been taken already on sale of beer by the glass in Victoria.

The first was on Jan. 14, 1921, and the second on Aug. 24, 1939. The statutes require 55 per cent of the total votes cast being in favor before beer parlors can be opened.

In the 1931 vote there were 3,371 votes for, 5,046 against and 145 ballots rejected. Eight years later the vote went: 3,909 for, 5,942 against, with 140 rejected ballots.

COPENHAGEN, Denmark (AP)—Two hundred passengers abandoned the 3,038-ton Danish steamship Kronprins Olav in lifeboats early today after the vessel had caught fire on a trip from Oslo, a steamship line officer reported.

VANCOUVER (UP)—The Dominion Public Weather Office here today issued a gale warning for all waters adjacent to the west and north coasts of Vancouver Island and the Queen Charlotte Islands.

Westerly winds 20 knots over waters around the west and north coast of Vancouver Island and the Queen Charlotte Islands will increase to southeast gales 35 to 45 miles per hour by midnight tonight and will decrease to southwest 30 by noon Tuesday.

U.S. Mercy Killing Trial May Establish Precedent

Dr. H. N. Sander with wife and daughter, Martha.

Fellow Townsmen Applaud As Dr. Sander Appears

MANCHESTER, N.H. (UP)—Dr. Hermann N. Sander watched with calm detachment today while four jurors were chosen to try him for the mercy murder of a woman cancer patient.

Three of the four picked at the swift-moving opening session are Roman Catholics whose church vigorously opposes mercy killings.

Of the 18 veniremen examined, the court excused eight, the defence challenged four, the prosecution, two.

Unexpectedly accompanied by his wife, Alice, 37, and the 46-year-old physician entered the courtroom to the cheers of 50 townspeople who braved the blustery sub-zero weather to wish him well.

Through a peephole scratched in a frosty window pane at home two of his three small daughters waved goodbye to their daddy when he left this morning to face an ordeal that could end on a hangman's noose.

But throughout these heart-tugging episodes Dr. Sander maintained the steady calm he had presented to the world since Dec. 29 when he was arrested on a murder charge in the death of Mrs. Abbie C. Borroto, 59. The state accuses him of injecting 40 cubic centimetres of air into her veins Dec. 4 as she lay dying in the Grassmere hospital.

His wife Alice, 37, wore a set smile when they made their way into the red brick courthouse through newsmen, photographers and court attaches.

Side by side, they sat during the opening proceedings in which the names of the 145 veniremen were read. They listened closely as Superior Judge Harold E. Wescott impressed on the veniremen "the importance of your duty."

"This is a responsibility that must be accepted by every American citizen," he said.

Then court moved to a smaller first-floor courtroom for the selection of 12 jurors and one alternate. It was a small green-walled chamber with 12 newsmen and radiomen a site only spectators.

Trial Of Verigin Starts At Nelson

NELSON, B.C. (CP)—The crown entered numerous exhibits today at the preliminary hearing on conspiracy charges against Michael (the Archangel) Verigin and Joe Podovinnikoff of Hilliers, B.C.

Letters, photographs and newspaper clippings were among the 43 exhibits. These were seized at the homes of the two accused, at Hilliers, 25 miles north of Nanaimo.

The charges are that the accused conspired with other members of the Doukhobor sect to create disaffection in the Kootenay and elsewhere in B.C. They are charged with encouraging sect members to disobey Canadian laws, to assemble when nude in public places, and refusing to send their children to school, and to commit adultery.

Appeal Rolled Around World Says Churchill

MANCHESTER, Eng. (Reuters)—Winston Churchill said tonight that his Edinburgh appeal for an approach to Stalin on the H-bomb had "rolled round the world" and "may bring us nearer to our heart's desire."

Dealing with Labor's criticism of his appeal as "an election stunt," Churchill said "after all it is the mass of people who suffer most when wars come; it is not the Socialist politicians who shed their blood."

Introducing the H-bomb topic, Churchill said:

"The Socialist politicians and party managers take a poor view of democracy. They have vehemently protested against my raising at Edinburgh the great question of the atomic bomb and our relations with Soviet Russia on which the future peace of the world depends."

Such subjects should not be mentioned at election times, according to the Socialists, Churchill said.

"They seem to think that material and domestic matters are all that the British democracy should talk about at the general election and that an extra half-ounce of tea or half-ounce of candy which (Food Minister John) Strachey has been good enough to give us ought to be sufficient to occupy the minds of the electorate."

Auto Wracks Building

DETROIT (AP)—An automobile crashed into a store here Sunday, causing the front bedroom of a second-floor apartment to tumble into the street. It was a rude awakening for Mrs. Anna Garther, 50, who was asleep in the room with six-month-old Eleanor Morgan. They suffered only minor injuries.

New No-Strike Order Issued As U.S. Stoppage In 7th Week

Workers Idle In Other Industries Now Total 42,000

WASHINGTON (AP)—Federal Judge Richmond B. Keach today issued a new no-strike order against John L. Lewis and the United Mine Workers. It runs until March 3.

Keach has had a "stop-strike" order out since Feb. 11, but the 372,000 miners have ignored it.

Lewis himself has observed it to the extent of twice sending instructions to the miners that they should go back to work. There has also been talk in Congress of legislation to let the government seize the mines. But Democratic leaders are not talking to that idea.

ACTION EXPECTED

PITTSBURGH (AP)—Striking soft coal miners, refusing to work again today for the seventh week, put the next step in the big "no contract, no work" strike squarely up to the government.

Federal officials in Washington debated taking action leading to a possible contempt of court charge against the United Mine Workers (U.M.W.) with new urgency.

Throughout the coal fields, idle diggers are steadfast in refusing to work until they get a contract. They are continuing their walk-out.

Meanwhile, industrial effects mounted. About 42,000 are idle in coal-using industries.

Jones and Laughlin Steel Corporation plans to close its big plants in Pittsburgh and Alliquippa, employing 25,000, unless coal production is resumed by the middle of the week.

In Detroit, the Ford Motor Company surveyed coal stocks with a possible operational cut-back in mind.

Bright lights were off Sunday night in the electricity brownout decree for New York State. Rationing of coal began under emergency state legislation.

Ottawa Hit By Another Cold Wave

OTTAWA (CP)—Dealers and garages were swamped with emergency calls today as a sudden cold snap dropped the temperature 42 degrees in 24 hours.

With the mercury dipping to 18 degrees below zero at 8 a.m. E.S.T., one fuel dealer said he had received 30 emergency calls for coal during the first two hours of business today.

A garage operator said his emergency trucks had been busy since late Sunday rescuing motorists whose cars "wouldn't start."

BIRTHDAY PARTY BLUES AS 11 CATCH MEASLES

Most comprehensive report so far of how the current small epidemic of measles is spreading probably is this: At a birthday party several weeks ago, there were 15 kiddies present—infants to seven-year-olds.

The day after the party, one of the children broke out in spots. It was assumed some of the others had contacted the germ.

Assumption was correct, for today the 11th child of the original 15 woke up spotted.

Two of the remaining four have been ruled out as prospects, having had the measles previously.

Mother of the original case was at a loss to explain where the child had picked up the germ, for schools had been closed for quite a period because of the cold spell.

THREATENED TO 'PINCH ME'

Irate Justice Attacks Police For Discourtesy

A charge that certain police officers were threatening the public was made by Mr. Justice A. D. Macfarlane during a hearing today for a writ of certiorari in Supreme Court involving the Provincial Motor Vehicle Act.

The charge was made after J. A. Byers, counsel, attempted to show methods used in police court to prosecute motorists charged with violating the act. Mr. Byers, through certiorari proceedings, is seeking to quash a conviction against Faith Robinson, Fernside Road, for failing to drive an automobile in a careful manner.

"I don't want to hear how things are done in police court," stated the judge. "because I might say a lot of things which I have no right to say against police officers."

The judge then admitted that he had been stopped by a police officer who claimed he had been speeding.

"He said the next time he would pinch me without warning," said the judge.

"What he said was improper and entirely wrong," added His Lordship. "Police officers have no right to threaten the public."

C. L. Harrison, city prosecutor, jumped to his feet and said he was sorry His Lordship had not reported the matter immediately to him.

Mr. Harrison admitted there had been some trouble with new and inexperienced police officers.

The certiorari proceedings before the court involved the right of the city magistrate to prosecute motorists under a certain section of the Provincial Motor Vehicle Act.

Mr. Byers claims that his client should have been charged under the Criminal Code.

Soviets Seize German Trucks

BERLIN (AP)—The Russians seized 30 German trucks in the last 24 hours in stepped-up raids on metal shipments to and from Western Berlin, U.S. sector police reported today.

Western Allied officials indicated their fifth protest in a month is being prepared. Four Western protests already have been delivered against these and other Soviet actions, which have been crippling Berlin's traffic with Western Germany.

Every truckload of scrap steel and non-ferrous metals reaching West Berlin's outskirts since Sunday morning was impounded by Soviet Zone authorities. The East German Republic set up under Communist domination in the Soviet Occupation Zone badly needs metals for its industries.

About 20 of the confiscated trucks were bound from West Germany to Berlin. The others had been leaving West Berlin for West Germany.

ONE WOMAN'S DAY

By NANCY HODGES

AMERICAN TEA PARTY

IT HAPPENED to be so busy on St. Valentine's Day that I have only just caught up with an interesting bit of news about certain doings which also took place on Feb. 14, but in the city of New York, and which centred around a tea party.

It seems that the members of the United States Board of Tea Examiners—a body of whose existence I was, I am ashamed to say, ignorant until now—held their annual tea party that day. But it wasn't one of those "tea where small talk dies in agonies," as the poet Shelley describes them. Not by a long chalk!

This particular party is held annually to determine standards for tea importations. But what made it a particularly outstanding event was that it also provided the occasion for the experts to serve a beverage—meaning tea, of course—"that would not offend a Britisher."

OFFICIAL STAND

IN THE FACE of that, it can be taken to mean that the New York tea party set forth the official American stand on tea-making. Now as one Canadian of English origin who has more than once been confronted, even in the best American hotels, with a pot of pallid, tepid fluid in which was partly immersed a pathetic pinch of tea in a paper—commonly known as a tea bag—I for one hailed this great advancement in tea-making technique on the part of a nation which has hitherto devoted most of its skill to the perfecting of coffee.

Or at least I did—until I read further. True, an editorial in the New York Times stated categorically that "no tea balls will be used. Thus a major source of Anglo-American discord will be removed."

STORM IN A TEAPOT

BUT WHILE a major source of international discord may have been removed with the elimination of the tea balls or tea bags, the recipe which bears the official stamp of American approval still contains within it a minor point on which Col. Blimp and his lady might justifiably raise a storm in a teapot. For, fellow-tea-drinkers, listen to this—and I quote:

"The recipe calls for the tea leaves (a level teaspoon for each cup) to be put into an aluminum strainer placed across the top of the pot. Boiling water is poured through the strainer until the pot is full. The water must not stay in contact with the leaves more than five or six minutes."

OBJECT VEHEMENTLY

I SHUDDERED when I read that. My reaction to that bomb in a teapot was to object as vehemently as would any American on learning that an official British recipe called for coffee to be made by dunking the beans in a pot of warm water.

For any real, honest-to-goodness tea drinker, whether Canadian or British, will writh with horror at the mere suggestion that tea should be made in any other way than by putting tea leaves right into a well-warmed pot—not teasing it by dangling the leaves over it in a strainer, whether of aluminum or gauze or anything else—then pouring really boiling water over it and allowing it to infuse until it reaches the desired strength.

STRAINS AND STRAINERS

THE STRAINER doesn't come into the picture—the authentic British tea-drinking picture, that is—until the tea is poured from the pot into the cup. And not always then, if the tea party happens to have a fortune teller among the guests!

In the meantime, unless something is done to expunge that directive about the strainer from the official U.S. tea-making recipe, I very much fear that Anglo-American relations will be subjected to even greater strain than was brought about by another historic tea party—at Boston in 1773!

Metropolitan Church Marks 91st Anniversary

Metropolitan United Church celebrated its 91st anniversary Sunday and today. Its founders were welcomed in 1859 by Governor James Douglas as missionaries to the Crown Colony. Within six weeks of their arrival plans were afoot for the construction of a building. Victoria then had a population of about 3,000. The last of the living links to the earliest days, Dr. J. H. White, a child of those beginnings, passed away last year.

The present structure at the corner of Quadra and Pandora, was dedicated in 1890, superseding a previous building on Broad Street which is still commemorated in a tablet inserted in the wall for all to read. Many members still survive the memory of the building of the beautiful structure which stands today. They include Chris Spencer, H. T. Knott, Aaron Parfitt and Frank H. Willis.

FOUND OTHER CHURCHES

Metropolitan has reached out to found other congregations in and around Victoria. Among new churches it sponsored are: Centennial, Wilkinson Road, Garden City, Victoria West, and James Bay. In addition to these numerous enterprises Metropolitan has

New Harbor Markers

Members' Days of Oratory Pass As They Hug P.A. Microphones

By LLOYD BAKER

It looks like the days of oratory are over in the Legislature.

Four years ago a costly public address system was installed in the Legislative Chamber because there were some members whose voices failed to carry to the furthest spectator.

It was a fine innovation for the listener but it is ringing the death knell of oratory.

Those who did thump desks and gesticulate with an arm upraised to drive home a point in forceful tone no longer do.

They speak quietly in to the microphone. There are no dramatic gestures to accentuate delivery because the loud speakers boom out the voice. Besides the mike might get knocked over.

There has been no mention of it in the House yet but the whisper is that starting next year motor vehicle license plates will be issued every five years instead of every year.

It is understood this is one of several economy measures recommended for the Motor Vehicle Branch of the Attorney-General's Department by the business consultant firm of Stevenson and Kellogg employed to survey operations of various government services.

The five-year plate, together with changes in office procedures and other administrative technicalities would mean a saving of nearly $1,000,000 in 10 years, it is estimated.

The new plate would probably

Many Losing Holiday Pay

Resolution Proposes Stamp System In B.C.

Under the present system in B.C., many part-time workers are not receiving holiday pay, delegates attending the annual C.C.F. Trade Union Conference at Woodsworth Hall were told Sunday night.

The meeting was told that, under present arrangements, many workers were not getting holiday pay because, in many cases, it was impossible to get in a calendar week to comply with the law.

Endorsement was given a resolution asking for two weeks' holiday with pay and use of the stamp system already in operation in Alberta and Ontario.

It was explained that while the stamp book was deposited at the government agency handling holidays the worker could not work and consequently would get his holiday.

Twenty-four delegates attended the meeting. C.C.F. members of the B.C. Legislature taking part were Harold Winch, opposition leader; Arthur Turner of the C.C.F. trade union committee; E. E. Winch, R. Haggen, Frank Calder, L. Nimsick and R. Harding.

The meeting also endorsed a resolution calling for a national labor code, and it was reported a brief being prepared will ask the provincial government for many amendments to the Industrial Conciliation and Arbitration Act concerning authority of the board and regulations to place employers' organizations on a par with trade unions as far as fulfilling agreements is concerned after negotiations have been completed.

A community mental health clinic, organized in Alberta in 1929, was unique in Canada at that time.

BEVAN SCORES BRITISH PRESS LORDS

Guilty of Criminal Distortion Says Labor Party's Siege Gun

LONDON (UP)—Health Minister Aneurin Bevan whipped into the home stretch of the general election campaign today with a denunciation of British "press lords" for "criminal" distortion.

Bevan told 400 women meeting at Tredegar in South Wales that as long as people "persist in buying those newspapers owned by press lords then they are always liable to be deceived."

Other leading candidates scattered for the closing days of the campaign.

Winston Churchill, wearing his famous square bowler hat and smoking a long cigar, was greeted by hundreds of cheering supporters when he arrived at Manchester by train. He will make speeches there and at Oldham tonight.

Prime Minister Clement Attlee and Bevan both made several speeches today. Chancellor of the Exchequer Sir Stafford Cripps was to speak in London tonight.

Anthony Eden, deputy Conservative leader, was speaking in north England.

Bevan was asked by an elderly woman if he would promise that if returned to power the Labor Party "will bring a certain amount of control of the press so that we shall have justice as well as the other side."

"The great danger that arises from that question," Bevan replied, "is that some newspapers will say tomorrow Labor demands to suppress freedom of the press. The right thing to do, of course, is to buy those papers that are most reliable."

"It would be very much better if people buy the (Labor Party organ) Daily Herald and not the (Conservative) Daily Express. If they will persist in buying those newspapers owned by press lords, then they are always liable to be deceived."

"Fortunately, however," Bevan said, "people are not so much influenced by the press as they were. That is what other nations cannot understand. They will read our newspapers and form a picture of what is happening in England, and when they come over here they find no comparison between what they've read and what they see."

"There is no doubt about it, certain newspapers have distorted the facts in almost a criminal way. But the real answer is not the suppression of freedom of expression of opinion, but more discrimination among the population as to what they buy."

Asked about Labor Party steps to improve international relations and win abolition of the atom and hydrogen bombs, Bevan said:

"International inspection is an essential condition for a sense of security and a sense of security is an essential condition for the abolition of war. When Russia agrees and when all the nations of the world agree to submit themselves to the inspection of an international inspectorate, when that happens, war has gone."

10 of 20 Experts Agree With Books On Labor Victory

Current Betting Shows British Tories Gaining

LONDON (AP)—Ten of 20 political experts in Britain forecast a Labor victory in Thursday's general election.

Six see a Conservative win.

Four say the race is so close they wouldn't hazard a guess.

All foresee a narrow margin for whichever party wins.

The Associated Press sought the views of 18 of the country's leading political journalists and the strategists of the two principal minority parties.

Ask Provincial Administration Of Garibaldi

Administration of Garibaldi Park on the mainland by the parks and recreation division of the provincial department of Lands and Forests rather than the Garibaldi Park Board has been requested.

A five-man delegation presented a brief to the provincial cabinet to this effect. The brief had the support of 18 organizations, including the Victoria Natural History Society represented by W. Tildesley, the Victoria Outdoor Club and the Victoria Section of the Alpine Club of Canada.

"It was argued the government parks division had greater facilities, technically-trained men, finances and enterprise to administer a park of the magnitude and potentiality of Garibaldi."

In addition to Mr. Tildesley, members of the delegation included Dr. Bert Brink, Vancouver Natural History Society; Don Buchanan, Community Planning Association of Canada; Dr. Neil Carter, Alpine Club of Canada; and Roy Howard, B.C. Mountaineering Club.

The resolution also was supported by such organizations as the Local Council of Women at Vancouver and the Native Daughters of B.C.

Plan Faster Response By Fire Fighters

A plan to bring quicker fire department action in rural fire emergencies, has been devised by Fire Chief Joseph Law of Saanich. It will go into operation when approved by the council.

It is a plan for numbering houses for fire department use and is the outcome of considerable thought given the problem of averaging major fire troubles. Several total losses have occurred in house fires in outlying areas in the past two years.

DISPLAYED ON POSTS

For a small fee, householders will be provided with number plates and a post on which to display them. The numbered posts are to be placed where they can be easily seen. If the house is a considerable distance from the road, the posts should be placed at the entrance.

Saanich firemen many times have experienced difficulty in locating houses in the rural areas owing to confused directions given by agitated people telephoning in alarms.

Under the number system, a master sheet in the alarm room would quickly identify the trouble area. It is Chief Law's hope the two-way radio system will be installed on the trucks so that firemen on the move can be directed by the alarm room as to shortest routes and other information, such as what water supplies are available.

Bomb-Growers Buy Cold Storage Plant

Vancouver Island Bulb Growers' Association has made arrangements for purchase of the refrigerated stores building near Patricia Bay Airport, it was learned today. The refrigeration plant will provide for cold storage of their produce as well as offering facilities for the treatment of bulbs.

The building cost $2,000, and a further $2,000 has been put aside for modifications and re-equipping. J. R. Rickard of Victoria is in charge of operation of the building.

Situated to the south of the airport on Centre Road, Sidney, the building consists of two wings in the form of a T. Each wing measures 90 feet by 30 feet. The location of the building is of particular value in relation to the airport, as many of the cut flowers are transported by air.

Agricultural Group Host to Delegates

The Victoria and Islands branch of the Agricultural Institute of Canada was host to a number of delegates attending the third B.C. Resources Conference at their regular meeting in the farmers' pavilion, Saanichton Experimental Station.

J. C. Hackney, research director for Safeways of Canada, who is retiring after two years' service as B.C. director of the A.I.C., was introduced.

Mr. Hackney reported the organization had 3,200 regular members and 700 student members. The board issue to build the new headquarters was over subscribed in one week.

Churchill Can End Cold War 'Beaver' Says

LONDON (AP)—Lord Beaverbrook asserted Winston Churchill can end the atomic armaments race between the East and West because he enjoys the respect and regard of Joseph Stalin.

Lord Beaverbrook wrote in his Sunday Express that if Churchill were restored to power as Britain's Prime Minister a face-to-face meeting between the two would offer high hope of "peace and tranquility" for the world.

The Canadian-born press magnate urged British voters to give the Conservative Party a majority in the parliamentary election Thursday so Churchill can undertake the mission.

"We can count on the immense authority, the widespread popularity and complete trust enjoyed by him in the United States," Beaverbrook wrote.

"No other British statesman stands as high there," Churchill himself suggested in a speech at Edinburgh last Tuesday a new high-level approach to the Kremlin for a pact to control the atom bomb, the hydrogen bomb and secret biological weapons which may prove more lethal than either.

Prime Minister Attlee and Foreign Secretary Bevin have said they consider the problem to be one for the United Nations.

Engineering Awards For Victoria Student

For the second time in three months, a Victoria student at U.B.C., Neil Macdougall, 849 Richmond Avenue, has been awarded a prize by the engineering society. The latest award was made in recognition of his technical paper, judged the best presented at the Engineering Institute of Canada's annual student night in Vancouver. Earlier, Mr. Macdougall's paper on the "Boeing 502 Gas Turbine" had been selected by professors as one of the best three presented at the university. Mr. Macdougall is expected to graduate in chemical engineering in May.

Mixed Weather Over Prairies Clears Again

WINNIPEG (BUP)—Mixed-up weather conditions that dumped snow, dust storms and warm chinooks on the prairies during the week-end cleared today.

Blizzards petered out today in Saskatchewan, Manitoba and northwestern Ontario. The warm chinooks and dust storms in southern Alberta ended and mild weather, between 30 and 40 degrees above zero, prevailed.

The storm was held indirectly responsible for the death of A. E. Ogilvie, superintendent of herd improvement services for the Saskatchewan government. He died Sunday after his car had bogged down in a snowdrift near Regina.

The blizzard cut off bus travel in Saskatchewan and cut plane traffic to a minimum. Winds reached a high of 52 miles an hour in parts of Saskatchewan Sunday. Visibility was as low as one-eighth of a mile in Regina at times.

War Fears In America Eased By Dominicans

CIUDAD TRUJILLO, Dominican Republic (AP)—President Rafael Trujillo of the Dominican Republic has eased combat jitters in the Caribbean by asking his congress to revoke his extraordinary powers to declare war.

Trujillo requested these powers last month after he had accused Cuba, Haiti and Guatemala of harboring plotters against the Dominican Republic. The three countries denied his charges.

Trujillo said he was asking that his special powers be withdrawn to facilitate discussions as a means of solving Caribbean disputes.

He said that the withdrawal would aid the Organization of American States in its conciliatory efforts.

An O.A.S. committee returned to its Washington headquarters last week after an investigation of Trujillo's charges, and is preparing a report.

During the last three years two unsuccessful attempts to invade the Dominican Republic have been made by private armed groups, described as Dominican exiles and professional adventures.

Asks 15,000 U.S. Troops Trained For Arctic War

DONJEK RIVER, Yukon (CP)—Lt. Gen. Stephen Chamberlain, over-all head of Exercise Sweetbriar, says he feels the United States army should have three regimental combat teams—about 15,000 men—trained for Arctic warfare, but not necessarily stationed in Alaska.

The commander of the U.S. 5th Army is watching one battalion—about 800 men—of a regimental combat team based at Camp Carson, Colo., face up to sub-Arctic conditions in this joint Canadian-U.S. manoeuvre.

Gen. Chamberlain told a reporter in an interview he feels 15,000 men trained to face Arctic conditions should be sufficient for the U.S. He was asked if he felt they should be stationed in Alaska.

"I know nothing about Alaska," he replied. He indicated a feeling that the essential thing is to have them trained. This exercise represents the first northern training for a complete unit, the Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry. The other unit of the building airborne Brigade—equivalent to an American regiment—will get the same training later, but not this winter.

Achievements Count

FOR A PROPER UNDERSTANDING OF THE MUCH CRITICISED provincial hospital insurance plan it is necessary to keep in mind the situation that prevailed before that program was inaugurated. There was the increasing threat that some hospitals would have to close their doors for lack of funds. There were the rising costs of operation, with hospital employees asking for a wage scale comparable with those of other types of work. There was the vicious circle caused by the inability of hospitals to collect many of the bills owed to them—Vancouver General Hospital, for instance, was receiving payment for only about 65 per cent of patients' accounts—which contributed to the increase in rates, which made it still more difficult for needy patients to pay. The fear of incurring overwhelming debt kept many a sufferer from obtaining the services he or she should have had. There was, too, the fact that a number of Health Societies operating in the province were forced into liquidation, with consequent loss to those who depended on them for assistance in time of illness. It was a situation that called for far-reaching measures. Government-sponsored compulsory hospital insurance appeared to be the only solution.

As Premier Byron Johnson pointed out in his policy speech in the Legislature last week, he had two objectives in mind when he proposed the Hospital Insurance Act. In his words they were:

- "1. To provide a reasonable degree of security against hospital bills for the people of the province in case of illness and hospital services being required.
- "2. To provide a method of financing our hospitals."

That the program, despite the fact that it will cost more than originally estimated, has achieved in large measure the objectives which prompted its establishment, is evident from the Premier's statement. During 1949 no less than 170,000 British Columbians benefited from hospital services financed from the insurance funds. A total of $15,000,000 was paid to the hospitals on their behalf. Individual bills ran from $10 to $2,000. Use of beds averaged 10 days. "It is obvious," said Mr. Johnson, "that one-half of the population of the province has directly and indirectly benefited by this plan."

In regard to the second objective the position is equally evident. Hospital budgets have been placed on a much more workable basis. Tradersmen's bills need not go unpaid for as long as six months, as formerly occurred in some cases. As the Premier expressed it, "I do not think there is any question that our hospitals are in much better position than they were before the inauguration of Hospital Insurance." And the salaries and working conditions of those engaged in the work of healing have been correspondingly improved. Mr. Johnson added:

"I feel sure that we can say . . . that we have given the people of the province a degree of security as far as hospital bills are concerned, and the financial position of our hospitals is in much better shape than before the Hospital Insurance Service came into effect. . . . I venture to say that nowhere else on this continent is so wide a service given for so reasonable a premium."

The final verdict on the actual value of the program must be given by those who have had occasion to benefit from the service—a verdict which is overwhelmingly in favor of it. And who can say he will not be the next to join these judges?

Is It Worth a Try?

WHATEVER ONE MAY THINK of Mr. Winston Churchill's proposal for direct talks with Generalissimo Stalin in an attempt to terminate the cold war—whether it is an "election dodge" as Labor spokesmen claim or a policy which it is really believed may produce results—it is a fact that the state of the world today is such that no possible remedy, however unlikely, should be overlooked. Even if there were no general election campaign in Britain, such a proposal by any eminent statesman should merit careful consideration.

It is true that previous efforts in the way of a direct approach to the Kremlin have not been fruitful. The atmosphere around a Russian conference table, however friendly it may be on the surface, does not usually determine the actions taken by the Soviets after the delegates have gone home. Repeated Big Four conferences have made that clear. Communism still wants to conquer the world. So that, granted a meeting with Stalin could be arranged, and that there was general agreement on the thesis that the cold war should stop, there would still be no guarantee that it would. Whether this might be attributable to Stalin's disinclination, or to his inability, would be beside the point. The anxious people of the world could only judge by results.

The adverse view of the proposal taken by President Truman is, of course, understandable. United States foreign policy is now based on the premise that further efforts to reach agreement with the U.S.S.R. are useless and that a policy of "containment" is the only one that can have any effect. It was a policy born of frustration at many a council table at Lake Success and in the capitals of the various big powers where Soviet delegates met with Western spokesmen. But such a policy need not be fixed and unyielding. Changing conditions may necessitate revised procedures. And particularly when a continuation of present plans seems destined inevitably to result in an arms race and ultimate—clash, every alternative avenue, despite its hopeless appearance, should be kept open and explored from time to time.

If He Wants a Face Like That—

UNLESS HIS FORMER APPEARANCE helped him to turn a quick mark or two on the vaudeville stage, we cannot understand the chagrin expressed by Heinrich Noll over the loss of his moustache and forelock. Heinrich was the German who was called Hitler's "double." A pair of shears applied at a drinking party in Giesen robbed him of the two major attributes which gave him the appearance of the Fuehrer. It is difficult at this date to understand why anyone should want to look like the man who plunged the world into hideous war and finished existence as a suicide in a Berlin bunker. But if Noll has an overwhelming desire to take on such an unsavory guise, we refer him to a certain Charles Chaplin, whose make-up man can perform that ridiculous transformation.

The Truman Doctrine Is Again Questioned

By NORA BELOFF, from Washington

REPEATED suggestions at home and abroad that the United States should revise its foreign policy in the light of its lost atomic monopoly, its giant budgetary deficit and its new knowledge of the perils of the hydrogen bomb, have been rejected but not silenced by U.S. Secretary of State Acheson's warning that there is no quick and easy way to end the cold war.

CALCULATED RISK

In telling his weekly news conference that the only argument which the Russians understand is force and that pleading with them to stop making trouble is like pleading with a river not to flow, Mr. Acheson was taking a calculated risk. Logically, his words could have been taken to mean that the United States has lost faith in the United Nations, that it intended to break off the five-power talks on the international control of atomic energy, or even that there was a prospect of a rupture of diplomatic relations with the whole Soviet bloc.

In fact, as State Department experts afterwards confirmed, the Secretary of State was merely reiterating the Truman doctrine which has been America's foreign policy for three years and involves containing Soviet aggression not by argument but by economic and military action.

This was done successfully first in Turkey and Greece, later in Berlin and in the military aid plan for western Europe.

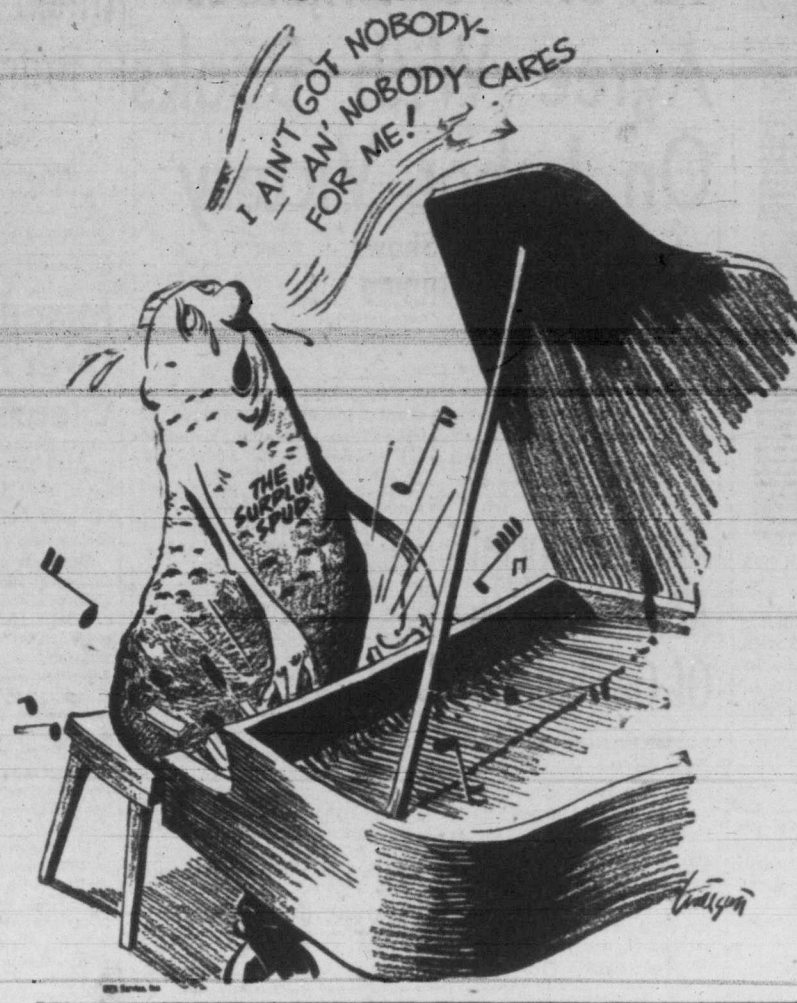

State Department policy planners have long believed that it is the nature of Soviet Communism to feel for soft spots in the capitalist world, to draw back where resistance is encountered and to press forward where resistance falls. From this they have drawn the conclusion that U.S. policy must be to harden wherever possible the economic and military capacities for resistance.

But during the past few weeks, quite apart from the specific proposals for new action on atomic energy control which Mr. Acheson welcomed, there have been important speeches and articles expressing widespread opposition to the prolonged cold war required by the present method of resisting Soviet aggression.

The most eloquent came from Senator McMahon, chairman of the Joint Congressional Atomic Energy Committee. The Senator was proposing that the Russians might be induced to accept atomic control in return for a disarmament agreement and an American offer to spend $50,000,000 diverted from arms, on a world-wide Marshall Plan.

The American government, which believes that Russia's rulers want continued

GET BEHIND THEM

Just a few lines about the hockey situation in Victoria. Just because our team has had bad luck, surely we are not such a lot of poor sports as not to stand behind them when they are down on their luck. I do not know Mr. Lester Patrick personally, but I do know there is not a finer and more sincere person on the continent and furthermore, none knows more about hockey. Just give him a chance and he will soon put Victoria at the top in the hockey world.

I have seen a lot of hockey in different cities, and I maintain that we have a good team here, with a splendid team spirit, but they have been badly handicapped. In the first place, they started too late in the season to be able to get more players, and have always had to play two or three men short. This means they have to play when they are tired and cannot get the rest they should during the game. Then they have had such a series of accidents. What team could stand having five players off, many of them for weeks, with accidents? I think myself that some of these accidents have been caused by their being short of players, and having to play so hard when they are tired.

We are very fortunate to have Mr. Patrick in charge of the hockey. He could retire in some other city and be lionized, but I think he is afflicted with the malady Mr. Bruce Hutchison speaks of in his article in the last Maclean's, viz., something that gets into our blood in Victoria and makes us so we can't or won't live anywhere else. So come on Victoria! Stand behind your hockey team. Cheers instead of jeers will make such a difference to the boys.

'MANNERS AND MORALS'

There is much talk of juvenile delinquency now, and conditions which are truly appalling exist amongst the youth in most of our cities. One hears everywhere, "the parents are to blame. They give the children no training in their homes and do not know nor care where they are when away from home." There is a great deal of truth in this, but how can the parents given the children what—in many cases—they have never had themselves? I am certain the solution to the problem could be found to an amazing extent in the schools. There they could be given training that would stay with them the rest of their lives. When a child starts to school his mind is like a clean sheet of plastic, all ready to be written on, and what is written on it when he is from six to 10 years of age will be there as long as he lives. At that age impressions can be made with a touch as light as a feather, which could be made later with hammer blows. Also at that age, the teacher's word is law to the child, usually more so than even the mother's.

I was a young teacher in eastern Canada many years ago. At that time there was a subject on the school curriculum, "Manners and Morals." This subject had to have a place on our timetables and we were required to teach it. We could do this in any way we liked, but there was a textbook to help us. I forget the name of it, but it was full of very short stories, each with a "moral." Each story brought out the value of some good quality, such as honesty, kindness, unselfishness, etc. I used to read the pupils one or two of these stories, and then we would discuss them, and they would tell anything they knew of along the same line, in their own experience or something of which they knew. They loved these lessons and would hurry through with their other work so we could have more time for them. Now I hear some readers say, "Sissy stuff, mollycoddling." But remember, we never heard of juvenile delinquency then.

SOCIALISM AND EXPLOSIVES

What has the ordinary man got to say about his fate? Nothing! Appalling weapons are devised, the annihilation of a nature cycle of life upon earth. The man in the street can do nothing but stare into the future apprehensively. The children are languid and dispirited and no future is bright.

What fate could be worse than the aftermath of the latest portentous discovery of explosives—annihilation of every living thing upon earth, as Professor Einstein maintains? Many millions of people would rather face the Russian personally (if indeed he is the enemy of our security) than contemplate momentarily the crime of society's end as Professor Einstein maintains it through poisoned atmosphere.

Russia is no more than trying to cope with the incalculable deceit of our ruling bodies as we are trying to cope with theirs. The people are never told the whole story. The press and propaganda outlets are printing and intoning only what is permitted to portray a certain picture.

The Russian system is by no means the system that could unify a world. The socialism Russia started out to create ended up in the minds and paws of capitalists. It does not follow that socialism has failed. It has never been tried. The principles of socialism are known to a handful of people only in every nation. Socialist literature is available to all who write for it.

Indo-China

By O. M. GREEN from London

BRITISH and American recognition of the Emperor Bao Dai and his kingdom Viet-Nam, finally constituted by France this month as an independent state "within the French Union," has not long been delayed.

Clearly the British and American aim is to strengthen Bao Dai's position by increasing his prestige against the pro-Communist government of Dr. Ho Chi Minh, which China, Russia and Russia's European puppets have recognized. Like Korea, Indo-China is thus divided into two states, though with frontiers less sharply defined and the issue far less easy to assess than in Korea. And in view of Indo-China's position as a draw-bridge to other southeast Asian countries, that issue is one of pressing anxiety to all Asia.

THERE are three states in Indo-China, each separately gaining independence and all recognized by Great Britain—the picturesque monarchy of Cambodia, about two-thirds the size of England, in the south-west; the long straggling province of Laos in the west; and the "Three Ky" as they are called, Cochinchina, Annam and Tongking, which make up Viet-Nam, about two-thirds of the whole of Indo-China.

Both the peoples of Cambodia and Laos are more like the Siamese than the Vietnamese. Both have long since come to agreement with France, leaving to her their defence and foreign policy, and managing their own affairs contentedly. The Vietnamese, or Annamese as they have commonly been called, are altogether more virile than their neighbors, proud of their ancient civilization and intensely nationalist.

THE CRUCIAL point in the Three Ky is Tongking with its long border marching with south China. Somewhere among its mountains and forests Dr. Ho Chi Minh's government, claiming to possess all the departments and exercise all the functions of an orthodox government, is established; and it cannot be denied that his power extends very far.

French control in Tongking hardly extends beyond a coastal parallelogram about 90 miles long by 60 miles wide, from Haiphong and Haiphong to Langson and Monay on the Chinese border. But far beyond Tongking, through Annam and Cochinchina, Ho Chi Minh claims to control four-fifths of the Three Ky. That is probably an exaggeration, although his guerrillas range as far as that, wrecking the country, harrying French convoys and reducing Indo-China's rice export from 1,250,000 tons a year to an uncertain 100,000 tons.

IN TRYING to estimate Bao Dai's chances of success, one must remember the important point that the Emperor is not the "play-boy" that Ho Chi Minh's partisans contemptuously call him. Largely educated in France, he rather scandalized the mandarins of his former court at Hue, when he first came to the throne, by his Frenchified tastes. But since the French first approached him, nearly two years ago, to form a government that would draw all moderate and non-Communist elements away from Ho Chi Minh, he has played his cards skillfully. In all his speeches he has dwelt on his determination to uphold Vietnamese nationalism and has striven to show that he is not and will not be a French puppet. The treaties signed by him and M. Pignon (French High Commissioner) in Saigon on Dec. 30 last year, and since, ratified in Paris, show that he has not been unsuccessful.

IT IS WORTH noticing that Bao Dai, before his abdication in 1945, was Emperor only of Annam. Now he has all the Three Ky—the obstinate attempt by the French and by native money interests to separate the rich province from Cochinchina as a puppet Republic has finally been defeated.

Defence, with certain military bases, must for the present, of necessity, be entrusted to the French, though without granting them extraterritorial rights, for which they asked. Bao Dai has full jurisdiction in Viet-Nam. He will also have his diplomatic representative abroad, though his foreign policy will be co-ordinated with the French. In all internal affairs Bao Dai's control is complete from police to education.

Ho Chi Minh obviously recognizes that Bao Dai must be taken seriously, as is shown by the appeal which he sent out on January 14 to all Powers to recognize him as the only true government of Viet-Nam. The recognition given him by Communist China and especially by Soviet Russia introduces a formidable question mark.

BUT it has yet to be seen what help, if any, China's Communists will give Ho Chi Minh. They have a great deal to do in China; and for the moment seem more intent sieging Tibet than on any other foreign project.

It is a point in Bao Dai's favor that his people are by no means pro-Chinese. They may not love the French but the Chinese they have always disliked and feared. The future depends on whether Bao Dai can give the Vietnamese peasants the cheap clothing and humble household requisites that they need and the peace and protection for which above all they crave.

CURRENT demands that the Western powers make fresh efforts to achieve agreement with Russia, and thus avoid a possible atomic war, give rise immediately to the vital question of what the demands are based on.

Is this idea premised on some concrete development or practical proposal which might appeal to Moscow? Or is it merely the result of wishful thinking—an idealistic effort to achieve something which ought to be accomplished by right-minded people?

It's vital that this point be cleared up before further steps are taken. This is so because we know from long, hard experience that there's not the slightest use in going to Moscow and calling for peace simply because peace is good or because somebody will get hurt if there is another war. That would look like an exhibition of weakness and could do untold damage to the cause of peace.

SOUND REASONING

I like the realistic way the United States Secretary of State, Dean Acheson, dealt with this problem in his policy statement of Feb. 8. He summed the situation up by declaring that four years of experience "have brought us the realization" that progress towards peace simply by making agreements with the Russians is impossible. The Soviet government is realistic and adjusts policies when compelled by facts to do so.

Acheson illustrated by pointing out that the U.S. has tried ineffectually for years to get an Austrian treaty; has made no progress towards getting a German treaty; and can't even get a forum with Moscow to discuss a treaty with Japan.

Acheson rejected all suggestions for new American peace appeals to Russia. He based U.S. anti-Communist strategy on a policy of power.

RUSSIAN BLUEPRINT

That declaration was made less than a fortnight ago, and the situation certainly hasn't changed since. What the Western world has to recognize is that Russia is waging her cold war under a concrete plan. It was worked out long ago and is aimed at communizing the world.

Thus far nothing has been allowed to stand in the way of this Red drive.

What we have to do before making a fresh approach to Moscow is to ask ourselves whether it will serve Red interests to call off the cold war, which is an integral part of the Communist drive to spread communism.

Marshal Stalin and his captains undoubtedly would debate the subject courteously with representatives from the West. But we may be dead certain there can be no lasting agreement unless that agreement should foster Communist interests.

That's an unpleasant conclusion to be forced into. However, we shall save ourselves trouble and disappointment if we face the facts squarely.

ONE WITH THE POETS

PAMELA FRANKAU in the BBC London Letter

We were made for two purposes; a practical physical purpose and a spiritual imaginative purpose. If we neglect either, we can only live half a life. And it is extraordinarily difficult not to neglect one or the other. I neglected the practical side of me for years. Don't please, if you have achieved early in life a mastery over the practical things, forget that you probably have as much brain as, and more imagination than most men. This may be a comfort to you when the whole world seems to be narrowed to a sink full of dirty dishes . . . please know it. Even if the knowledge only leads to the composition of half a line of poetry in your head, half a line that you never tell to anybody—at that moment you are in the company of all the poets who ever lived.

There awakens in the most healthy part of all people, and all nations the hope for a reconciliation, for the spiritual fraternity of all peoples of goodwill.—Pope Pius XII.

Ups And Downs

"THE way I see it," said the Elevator

Man, "the way I see it, this fellow Franco must be getting pretty lonesome out in the cold and dark. It's quite a while now since the democracies called home their ambassadors and told Franco he wasn't wanted in the United Nations—plenty of time to think things over and wonder whether it's worth being a dictator if nobody else will even say hello to you. Of course we've had our commercial men over there, but a salesman will talk to anybody. Some people, you'd just as soon have their money as their friendship any day. Going up!"

"What I think," said the Elevator Man, "is that Franco might be glad to do a little bargaining himself. So many bushels of wheat—so many political prisoners set free. So many tons of steel—so many members of Parliament told they can vote as they like. It might work out. And for the jackpot prize—a seat in the United Nations—who knows what the little fellow might offer? Watch the step!"

"The thing to remember," said the Elevator Man, "is that Franco can't forget what happened to his two models—Hitler burned to ashes and Mussolini hanging upside down from a garage roof. There's no future in that. Of course, they did well for a while. Even Mussolini made the trains run on time. But it was borrowed time."

Sweetbriar Troops Sweltering As Mercury Soars To Near Zero

DONJEK RIVER, Yukon (CP)—Exercise Sweetbriar's Canadians and Americans had driven 300 hectic miles and were skidding along the Alaska-Yukon border today. Biggest news of all, the weather had surrendered. After seven days of cracking temperatures between 25 and 40 below zero, the thermometer headed upward to around zero. The troops, jubilant as they drew nearer Thursday's climax of the first joint subzero manoeuvre, were still going strong. They took off some of their bulky clothes and talked cockily about banana-belt temperatures. The Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry became the first military unit to invade foreign soil in peacetime, the first to invade Alaska since the Second World War. They went out front again today in the mock war against aggressor American forces and will be out front from now until one of their companies parachutes into Northway, Alaska, Thursday. Hostilities end then. Weather experts, key men in an exercise that wooed and

Stiff Fight Shaping Up On Phone Rate Increase

Eastern Cities to Lead Opposition Against Proposed 20 Per Cent Boost

OTTAWA (CP)—A stiff fight is shaping up over the Bell Telephone Company's attempt to boost phone rates in Ontario and Quebec.

Protests against proposed increases averaging 20 per cent have been pouring in on the Board of Transport Commissioners. The board regulates phone rates.

It was announced Saturday the hearings will open here March 8. Leading the opposition will be cities of Toronto, Montreal, Ottawa, Hamilton and Quebec. But many smaller municipalities and other organizations also have lodged objections against the Bell move.

The increases, which would affect virtually every user of local and long-distance telephone service in the two central provinces, were applied for last fall on the ground they were needed to put the company in a position to finance a huge construction program necessary to meet subscriber demands.

The proposed new rates would vary widely from city to city, and according to the type of service. In general, they would average out to 20.6 per cent.

The leading cities opposing the application have agreed, in formal replies filed with the board, the company cannot justify the increases. They contend Bell has over-stated its financial needs and under-stated its prospective revenue.

Beside this, a special legal plea has been filed by Montreal contending the company actually is barred from making a higher-rate application now because during the last 2 years it has not taken advantage of authority obtained in 1927 to adjust its rate categories in such a way as to bring it more revenue.

Under this authority, the rates for local service in a given area could be put up as the number of phones in that area increased.

The Ontario Hydro-Electric Power Commission serves 969 municipalities.

No Members Of Armed Forces In British House

LONDON (CP)—The fighting forces will have no serving representatives among members of Britain's next House of Commons.

To ensure adequate representation during the war when men and women were drained away into service life, regulations preventing army, navy and air force personnel from offering themselves as candidates for Parliament were suspended. If elected, they were given leave without pay.

The recently-dissolved House had only two servicemen members, both Conservative.

The government announced last December that after this election no candidate might present himself from the services. Any sailor, soldier or airman wanting to enter politics would have to resign or obtain his discharge or retirement before nomination.

Modification of the regulations was permitted for this election.

Reorganization Approved For Mexico Light, Power Co.

By FORBES RHUDE
Canadian Press Business Editor

Mexico, in the words of G. S. Messersmith, chairman of the board of the Mexican Light and Power Company Ltd., is the fastest developing country industrially in Latin America.

He gave this view at a press conference Saturday following meetings of the preceding four days which gave approval of security holders to proposals for capital reorganization of Mexican Light and two of its subsidiaries, Mexican Electric Light Company Ltd. and Lachuca Light and Power Company.

The companies serve Mexico City and federal district with light and power, and the rapid industrial development there is part and parcel of the need for a $50,000,000 expansion program now under way, and accordingly for the proposed reorganization.

The reorganization is to meet requirements of the International Bank for Reconstruction and Development (World Bank), which is prepared to lend the company $26,000,000 on a long-term basis to meet the foreign exchange requirements of the program. The reorganization involves a complicated exchange of eight classes of securities which company executives believe establishes the company financial structure on a sounder basis and ensures its future.

Apparently the security holders affected felt, for the most part, the same way. The securities are heavily held in Britain and on the continent and by many people, but representation at the meetings of the eight classes of holders was in excess of 50 per cent of outstanding securities in all instances and as high as 78.1 per cent.

In three classes the vote was unanimously in favor of the plan presented and in four others it was more than 99 per cent in favor.

The next step is application to the Supreme Court of Ontario for sanction of the plan. Head office of Mexican Light is in Toronto.

Four languages—German, French, Italian and Romansch—are spoken in different sectors of Switzerland.

EDWARD STIDDER

Featured Player Has Stage Background

The featured player in the Victoria Players' Guild forthcoming production, Edward Stidder, as "Uncle Harry," which will be presented at the Sirocco, Feb. 28, March 1 and 2, has had considerable stage experience.

Born of professional stage actor-parents, Mr. Stidder has a natural flair for the theatre. He started his career at the age of 12 years, when he began to write plays, one of which won first prize in a school magazine contest.

He played in Ibsen's "Peer Gynt" here in 1939 and prior to that spent much time working for the local radio station. He served five years with the Royal Canadian Navy and was co-producer for "Up Spirits," a musical revue at H.M.C.S. Avalon in Newfoundland in 1944.

Horace Reginald Paul of Brentwood P.O. was found guilty of a dangerous driving charge in B.C. police court by Magistrate A. I. Thomas and fined $35 or in default seven days.

H-Bomb, World Markets, Jobs Main Issues Faced

M.P.'s Divided Over Which Is Most Important Matter for Parliament

By NORMAN M. MACLEOD

OTTAWA (BUP)—Canada's lawmakers split today over the hydrogen bomb, narrowing foreign markets and unemployment as the top issues facing the new session of Parliament.

They were unanimous in saying that all three rated urgent cabinet attention, but were wide apart in deciding which merited first call on Parliament's and the government's time.

G. T. Fulford, Liberal member for Leeds, Ont., said the H-bomb "unquestionably is the most important factor ever injected into the international situation and the most important not only for us but for any people anywhere."

"Strength," he said, "is the only answer. Before you tame barbarians you must be their master. Our consideration of national defence estimates will be our most important work this session."

Arthur Laing, Lib.-Vancouver South, felt the same way about international affairs and said: "We must arrive for re-integration of the forces on our side. We divide the world into two camps, Communist and non-Communist. Then we proceed to divide our own side into a half dozen or more factions. We divide dollar countries against the sterling bloc."

"We must seek to escape from this factionalism," he said. The C.C.F. view was outlined by Angus MacInnis, member for Vancouver East. He chose unemployment as the nation's gravest outstanding issue and said a division of authority between Ottawa and the provinces was untenable.

Victor Quelch, M.P. for Acadia, Alta., and a Social Credit spokesman, accepted international trade as the newborn session's main interest. He said Parliament should carefully study proposals for an international commodity clearing house which were turned down recently by the United Nations Food and Agricultural Organization.

Defence Minister Pays Last Respects

Defence Minister Brooke Claxton was among the many Canadians to pay tribute to Col. Hugh Macintyre Urquhart, aide-de-camp to two kings and former commanding officer of the Canadian Scottish Regiment, whose funeral took place in Victoria Friday.

In a message sent to Victoria today, the minister said: "Col. 'Sandy' Urquhart was a good soldier, good citizen and a good friend."

"He did his utmost in service in two world wars and the periods between. The people who knew him and those who served with him will never forget the inspiring influence of his humble dedication to the causes he believed in and fought for."

The Alert Service difficulty has to do with terms of a proposed agreement submitted by the union.

The governor, deputy governor and directors of the Bank of England, reduced from 24 to 16, are now appointed by the government.

Probe Outbreak Of Food-Borne Disease

Origin of an outbreak of salmonella which last Friday struck an estimated 35 persons is being investigated by city health authorities who describe the ailment as a relatively rare food-borne, gastro-intestinal ailment, which is "pretty miserable but not fatal."

The outbreak followed a dance at a downtown supper club but Dr. J. L. Gayton, city medical health officer, said he was satisfied the infection did not originate with the staff of the club. All sources of food served at the dance are being checked.

Police Court Fines $2,100 in January

Chinook Arch Welcome Sight To People of Alberta

All winter long southern Alberta wondered what had happened to their celebrated Chinooks which can turn winter into spring overnight. Last week they were reassured when a Chinook arch filled the western sky and temperatures climbed to a balmy 45. This photo shows the arch with a section of downtown Calgary in the foreground. Most popular theory as to the cause of the Chinook is that warm, moist air moving in from the Pacific Ocean is lifted over mountains. As it climbs it is cooled and the moisture condenses. As the air descends on the Alberta side of the mountains it picks up the heat left by the condensation of the moisture and then sweeps across the foothills as dry, warm air. The arch is believed a cloud formation, built up where the moisture leaves the air.—(CP Photo)

U.N. Delegates Urge United States To Cut Tariffs, Trade Barriers

LAKE SUCCESS (CP)—A concerted plea from United Nations delegates is expected this week urging the United States to lower tariffs and other trade barriers. The call will come in the U.N.

B.C. Red Cross Reports Deficit In Blood Bank

"There is still a deficit," C. A. Scott, B.C. Red Cross commissioner, said Friday in reviewing operation of the provincial blood transfusion service. Speaking before the annual meeting of the B.C. Red Cross division in Vancouver, Mr. Scott said:

"While total collections for 1949 were 32,136 bottles, a weekly average of 618, there is still a deficit, when plasma is included, of 5,982 bottles, an average weekly deficit of 115."

Col. W. G. Swan, chairman of the transfusion service committee, speaking on the same subject, said:

"We must raise our objective for next year to 40,000 pints of blood, or nearly 800 per week, to cover present rate of expenditure and estimate increase."

Col. Swan reported 84,113 pints of blood had been collected in B.C. since the start of the Red Cross service in 1947.

"This," he said, "at the commercial rate of $25 per pint represents a saving to the people of this province of more than $2,100,000."

"Saving of lives, relief of suffering and anxiety, cannot be calculated," he said.

Economical and Social Council. The council, boycotted by Russian delegates, is expected to discuss the world economic situation and possible methods to improve a dark picture.

The U.N. talk will perhaps be phrased in even more diplomatic terms than those voiced in New York Feb. 10 by Canada's Prime Minister Louis St. Laurent.

ADDED SECURITY

He urged the U.S. to reduce tariffs and other trade barriers as a possible huge boost to western security.

Canada is expected to have a detailed statement on "major economic changes in 1949," a report by U.N. economists. The 101-page survey released last week will form the basis for the council's discussion.

Raymond Eudes, Liberal member of the Commons for Montreal-Hochelaga, heads the Canadian delegation. His alternates are Sidney Pierce, associate deputy minister of trade and commerce, and Dr. George Davidson, deputy welfare minister.

The U.N. economists reported that world trade troubles toughened in 1949 and no remedy is yet in sight. The drop of imports into the U.S. during 1949 was seen as the major factor aggravating the chronic imbalance in world trade—excluding Russia and the Soviet-bloc countries.

SUGGESTIONS

The experts did not lay down any hard and fast rules for solving the stiffening problem, but made these two major general suggestions:

1. Increase in U.S. imports, de-

Canada's death rate from tuberculosis reached a low point of 31.1 per 1,000 persons in 1948.

crease in U.S. exports, or both, coupled with continued large-scale U.S. economic aid.

2. Readjustment of western Europe's trade and production to supply the requirements of underdeveloped countries during their period of economic development.

Job Insurance To Be Wider

Lower Rates May Be Raised; Others Reduced

OTTAWA (CP)—Persons finding it hard to locate jobs this winter may get an extension of unemployment insurance benefits under legislation to be introduced in the Commons.

Labor Minister Mitchell gave notice Saturday that he would introduce a resolution this week asking Commons approval to amend the Unemployment Insurance Act.

The amendments provide:
1. Provision of supplementary winter benefits to contributors reaching the end of normal benefits and unable to find work in the period January-March. The supplementary benefits will automatically end March 31.

2. Plans to insure additional groups, possibly lumbermen, who, because of the seasonal nature of their work, have not been included.

3. Readjustments of contributions to the insurance fund to simplify bookkeeping procedure. Those paying low rates likely will pay higher contributions. Those in the higher brackets may be brought down a notch.

4. Increase of the unemployment advisory committee membership from six to eight.

Meanwhile C.C.F. members have placed a number of questions concerning unemployment on the order paper. They will receive written replies.

M. J. Coldwell, C.C.F. leader, has asked questions about such topics as changes in government employment policy since last January, the lapse of time in which unemployment figures are received and made public, and appeals for federal help to meet unemployment costs.

ASKS TOTALS

Stanley Knowles (C.C.F.-Winnipeg North Centre), wants to know the total number of jobs in each province at various periods since 1948 and how much money voted for public works has not yet been expended.

Emphasis to the seriousness of Canada's growing unemployment population was given last Friday when the Labor Department announced that 375,600 now are out of work—an increase of 120,000 over the corresponding period in 1949. The latest figure reflects an increase of 52,600 since Jan. 12 and 114,600 since Dec. 22. It represents 7.4 per cent of the total labor force of 5,100,000.

Fire Might Stop Church Services

ALLIANCE, O. (AP)—If Rev. John Bench stops in the middle of his sermon some Sunday and races out of the church, it won't surprise anyone around here. For Mr. Bench has just been named chief of Washington's township's new volunteer fire department—and fire alarms have been known to ring on Sunday mornings.

Paced at speeds up to 60 miles an hour by Chief of Police Gilbert Stancombe, William G. Burrows, Gordon Head Camp, pleaded guilty to careless driving and was fined $35 by Magistrate H. C. Hall. His license was also suspended. Court was told that during the pacing, Burrows passed several cars.

Royals' Goalie Makes Save

Victoria United centre-forward Tommy Druce provided New Westminster goalie Bernie Williams with plenty of anxious moments in Saturday's Coast League soccer match. Druce scored the locals only goal. Note the determined look on Druce as he watches Williams push the ball over the bar from his header.

Pair of Eagles Give Unknown Burke Victory in Texas Golf

HARLINGEN, Tex. (UP)—An unorthodox faith in his driver hoisted obscure Jack Burke, Jr., of White Plains, N.Y., to number two among professional golf's money winners today.

Burke used his driver twice, once from the tee and again for his approach, to score an 18th hole eagle yesterday in the final round of the Rio Grande Open tournament. That gave him a six-under-par 65 for the day and a record-breaking 264 for the 72 holes and a two-stroke victory in the tournament.

Only Sammy Snead, the irrepressible hillbilly from Greenbrier, W. Va., ranks ahead of him in the spolia department with a season total of $7,558.

Snead skipped the Valley Open to take a rest from the pressure. Burke's 18th hole eagle was his second of the day. He also went two-under-par on the 480-yard No. 3. He birdied holes 4, 7 and 9 in carding a 30-35-65 over the par 35-36-71 course, winning $2,000 and bringing his winter earnings to $4,940.

Right behind Burke was Skip Alexander, a Tennessee who hasn't been in the money all year. He came in with 266 for 72 holes and second high money of $1,400. He shot a 66 yesterday.

Mercantile Hockey Billed Tuesday

Commercial ice squads will see action twice this week at the Memorial Arena in order to speed up the regular league schedule with games billed Tuesday and Friday nights.

The fourth-place Hotelmen will entertain the second-place Fishermen's Co-ops in Tuesday's opener at 7 with a win at stake for both squads. The bellhops will attempt to clinch their last playoff position, while the Fishermen, two points behind the league-leading Douglas Tire six, will need the points to stay up at the top.

The Navy sextette, currently five points off the pace, stacks up against the cellar-dwelling Brotherhood of Papermakers in the second fixture at 8:15, while in the finale, the top-riding Tiremen meet the hot and cold Civil Service outfit.

Button Voted No. 1 Athlete

NEW YORK (AP)—Dick Button of Englewood, N.J., world and Olympic figure skating champion, Sunday was awarded the James E. Sullivan Trophy as the outstanding amateur athlete of 1949 in the United States.

Winner of the Olympic skating crown in 1948, Button went on to capture the world, North American and United States championships last year.

ROCHON TOPS CANADIAN RANKINGS

Vancouver's Lorne Main Gains Recognition by Taking Second

MONTREAL (CP)—Henri Rochon of Montreal, Canadian singles champion, was given top ranking among men players by the Canadian Lawn Tennis association at its annual meeting Saturday.

Patricia Macken of Montreal was ranked first among women, although she abdicated her singles title to Mrs. Baba Lewis of Jamaica Plain, N.Y.

Rochon, 26-year-old member of Canada's Davis Cup team, was followed by 20-year-old Lorne Main of Vancouver, highest ranked ever attained by the young, ambidextrous west coast star.

Jim Macken of Montreal was ranked third and Walt Stohlberg of Vancouver fourth. Stohlberg was ranked below Macken because he lost to the Montreale in the Quebec provincial championship. Macken later reached the semi-final of the Canadian championships while Stohlberg lost in the quarter finals.

Elaine Filles of Edmonton and formerly of Montreal was named second behind Miss Macken in the women's rankings. Mrs. Louise Brown of Toronto was third and Lois Reid of Vancouver fourth.

Brendan Macken of Montreal was unranked in the men's division because of insufficient data. He did not take part in any major tournament in Canada except the Davis Cup matches with Australia, in which he upset Billy Sidwell to give Canada its only victory.

Paul Willey of Vancouver was ranked first among junior men because of his victory in the Canadian junior championships. Pat Lowe of Ottawa was ranked first among junior women.

WRESTLERS BACK

Brooks Offers Triple Main On Saturday

Wrestling will return to Victoria Saturday night. Various military units making their headquarters at the Armories will stage a series of bouts with Rocky Brooks acting as matchmaker. First bout will start at 8.30.

Cruisers have enjoyed their greatest success, from an attendance standpoint at the Armories. Programs held at the Memorial Arena and York Theatre failed to attract the usual crowds.

Brooks stated today there are a lot of good boys available and he is confident of arranging top-notch matches.

For his first program Rocky plans a triple main event. In one of his bouts he will present the popular Al Szasz against Paavo Katonen. Another performer will be Ted Bell making his first appearance here. Complete card will be announced later in the week.

Kamloops-Kelowna Score Ice Wins

KAMLOOPS (CP)—Playing before the largest crowd to see hockey game here this winter, Kamloops Elks dumped Nanaimo Clippers 6 to 1 Saturday night.

With only two games left to play, Elks can clinch first place by defeating Kelowna Packers Tuesday. Packers and Elks are the only teams left with a mathematical chance of coping the top spot.

Billy Hryciuk scored two for the Elks as they won Saturday night.

In a game at Kelowna the home team came from behind to defeat Vernon 8 to 6.

Civil Service Puck Squad Still Unbeaten

Civil Service kept their winning streak alive in the city roller hockey league Sunday with a 5 to 3 victory over James Bay, Chunggranes and Ludbrook each scored two goals for the winners.

Bowling from scratch for a total of 2,386 pins, Harknett Fuel Sunday won the Arcade Trophy and the city women's tenpin team championship at Gibson's Bowladrome.

The fuel dealers captured the honors on the strength of an 846 finish in the final game, following a 734 start and an 806 second game.

Automotive Parts wound up in second place with 2,329, and the Victoria Times third with 2,277.

Jane Munn paced the champions with a three-game skunk of 523 for the tourney's high total and also a single game high of 193. Marge Beane copped runner-up honors for the winners with 489 on a 191 second game high.

TWIN WIN BOLSTERS RANGERS FOURTH SPOT

New Yorkers Trip Leafs In Rugged N.H.L. Clash

New York Rangers, the only team gaining four points during the week-end, have ridden a six-game streak into a solid hold on the National Hockey League's fourth and last play-off spot.

The men from Manhattan edged Toronto Maple Leafs 2 to 1 at Madison Square Garden Sunday, after beating the Canadiens 4 to 2 at Montreal Saturday. The Leafs Saturday had extended their undefeated streak to seven games, including three ties, by upsetting Detroit 3 to 2. In the only other week-end game, Boston and Chicago deadlocked 4 to 4 at Chicago.

Centre Edgar LaPrade and goalie Chuck Rayner starred in both the Ranger victories. At Montreal Saturday LaPrade scored two goals, Ed Slowinski and Buddy O'Connor getting the others, as Canadiens were held to two counters, by Maurice and Elmer Lach. The Forum had 13,492 fans for the driving game in which Rayner performed spectacularly in the New York nets, with 27 saves to 20 for Bill Duran.

In New York, where a crowd of 15,024 saw one of the roughest games of the season, LaPrade scored the first Ranger goal and Bill Ezinicki tied it up for Toronto. Then Alex Kaleta came through with the winner for New York after a face-off late in the last frame. Rayner was brilliant on several of his 26 saves, while Turk Broda was stopping 25. Sixteen penalties were called altogether.

Visiting Swim Stars Sweep Gala Honors

Dominating every event Vancouver Amateur Swimming Club members handed Victoria Amateur Swimming Club representatives a smashing 102 to 14 point victory in the intercity swim gala at the Crystal Garden Saturday night.

Youthful Monty Vanden registered the lone victory for the locals, splashing to a win in the juvenile boys' 25-yard dash.

In the senior men's events Terry Connell and Jerry McNamee registered triumphs for Vancouver while Pat Whiteside scored a double victory in the two women's freestyle competitions.

An added feature was an exhibition of aerial acrobatics by Ed Keiter's Pro Rec group.

The victory, coupled with a 3 to 3 tie the night before with the New Westminster Royals, leaders of the northern division, lifted Penguins into a third place tie with Vancouver.

Seattle's rising Ironmen continued their winning way by beating Royals, 4 to 2, last night in Seattle. It was Seattle's fourth victory in five starts since manager Frank Dotten took over the coaching chore.

In the final 10 minutes of play Tacoma Rockets slammed in four goals to beat Canucks, 7 to 3, Saturday night in Tacoma.

VICTORIA, B.C.

"We must now face the undoubted fact that nine out of ten Canadians have a secret ambition to leave home and settle here (Victoria) in their old age."

FROM THE FANSTAND

By PETE SALLAWAY, Times Sports Editor

JUDGING from past experience, Ken Darbyshire has a sound argument when he declares a Victoria fall fair needs horse racing to be a success. At the annual meeting of the B.C. Agricultural Association last week Darbyshire, well-known island horse breeder and trainer, pleaded with the directors to include a racetrack in any plans they might make for new fairgrounds. Darbyshire knew what he was talking about when he argued no fair could operate successfully without racing because a large proportion of the gate receipts were received from racing patrons.

WHEN the annual fairs were held at the Willows I remember how the racing fans used to squawk about having to pay the admission fee into the fair before they could gain admittance to the track. That extra charge for the week of the fair always burned them but it was mighty good business for the fair promoters. They could be certain of a healthy take every day of racing.

OF course there is another good argument for the construction of a race track here. What city in Canada of a comparable population to Victoria is without a racing plant? As for those people who object to horse racing—they can always stay away. In my opinion the majority of Victorians favor a racetrack and I hope Darbyshire will continue his campaign to give us back our annual two weeks of the sport of kings.

CORRESPONDENT BRYCE R. COZENS gets a few beefs off his chest regarding our Cougars. He writes: "I have attended all home games of the Cougars and together with many fans am disgusted with their showing in recent games; not from the standpoint of league position so much, but the lackadaisical way the players have been acting. I do not blame the players but the management; if the management had shown some conscientious interest together with definite efforts to bolster the team the fans would take the club's cellar position a lot easier. Fan interest, generally, is as much management activity as league position. The excuse that players are not available is hardly true as borne out by the fact that practically every other team in the circuit has had player additions within the last two months."

IN all fairness to the management of the Cougars let me point out to Mr. Cozens that the Victoria club had only one player source—the Montreal Canadiens. I know that Lester Patrick appealed to the N.H.L. club for help several times during the season only to be informed players were not available. Again don't forget that both Patrick and his general manager, Fred Hutchinson, came to the Pacific coast unfamiliar with the calibre of hockey played in the P.C.H.L. They both came into the league "cold." Constructive criticism is good but one must be fair.

Tide Drops Second Cup Start; Oak Bay Beaten

Victoria's rep rugger continued to find mainland opposition too stiff at Macdonald Park Saturday afternoon as they bowed to Vancouver Lions, 18 to 3.

It was the second successive McKeechle Cup defeat for the locals and virtually eliminated the squad from further consideration in the provincial English rugby classic.

The Lions took advantage of two great scoring opportunities in the opening 15 minutes of play to build up a first-half lead of 13 to 0. And although the match was definitely more interesting than last week's opening game the Tide could never recover from the blow and were a well beaten club.

Veteran Lloyd Williams put the Lions in the lead early in the game when he converted a 28-yard penalty goal. Alex Mahood crashed through the Victoria defence to fall on a loose ball over the line for the first try a few minutes later. Williams converted to give the visitors an 8-to-0 bulge.

Less than a minute later, following a line-out at midfield, Dave Storey dumfied his way for 30 yards through the local three-quarter line and put Lionel Feeney in the clear for Vancouver's second major. Williams again split the uprights with the conversion.

Harry Olsen had tough luck on one penalty attempt from the 26-yard line when his effort hit the crossbar, but he later made good on a slightly longer try to account for the Tide's only points of the match.

Buzz Moore scored Lions' final try in the second half and once again Williams added the extra points.

Over on the mainland Oak Bay High School dropped their provincial high school championship series to Vancouver Technical School 12 to 8.

Bays lost the second game of the series Saturday, 9 to 0. They had won the opener here the previous week, 8 to 3.

Esquimalt To Meet Wests In Soccer League Knockout Final

Esquimalt and Victoria West, season-long rivals for first place in the Victoria and District Soccer League, will meet in the league championship knockout final.

Esquimalt gained the final bracket Sunday with a 2 to 0 blanking of Duncan Native Sons while Wests edged Oak Bay, 3 to 2 Saturday afternoon for their final berth.

In Phoenix Cup play Canadian Legion defeated Alcos, 4 to 1, Saturday, and Heaney's and Navy battled to a 3 to 3 tie Sunday.

Don Robinson put Esquimalt in the lead against Duncan in the first five minutes. Given a penalty for hands a few minutes later Duncan missed from the spot kick. John Christensen then banged home the dockyarders' second goal less than 10 minutes later to complete this scoring.

Action Marks Silver Gloves Fight Tourney

"They certainly put on a wonderful show."

That was the most-heard remark in the vicinity of the Armoures late Saturday night.

And they did, too. A total of 27 bouts were crammed into the four-hour program of the Vancouver Island Silver Gloves boxing tourney, co-sponsored by the Victoria Kinsmen Club and the Vancouver Island Boxing Association.

After it was all over, the prizes for winners and runners-up were presented by Doug Tuck, president of the Kinsmen Club.

Top award of the night went to popular Lloyd Tahouney, who does his boxing with the Esquimalt Club. Tahouney, who mixed it with Ralph Thompson, St. Louis College, in the flyweight division, survived a low punch in the second round to come through with the title and also the prized Silver Bow Award.

TRIPLE WINNERS

Orchids went out to two titlists—Kerwin Johnson of Esquimalt, the 90-100-pound winner for 1950 and Duncan's Jackie Ford, titlist in the 60-70-pound division. The pair each struggled through three bouts to win.

Johnson captured the Victory Trophy awarded for the best fight of the card. Other trophy winners were: Jim Woods, Esquimalt, the most scientific boxer; George Vaughan, Glenlyon School, the best loser; Malcolm Quaitie, Esquimalt, the most sportsmanlike loser; Harold Doucette, Alberni, the best footwork; and Tommy Burgess, manager of the Esquimalt Club, the Jack Knowles Memorial Trophy for the club capturing the most decisions.

Other Silver Gloves champions named were: Frankie Copley, North Ward, 50-60 pounds; Gerry Gladstone, Esquimalt, 70-80 pounds; Jimmy Woods, Esquimalt, 80-90 pounds; John MacLeod, North Ward, featherweight; Wayne Robertson, Esquimalt, bantamweight; Ernie Calverley, North Ward, lightweight; and Bill Rogers, St. Louis College, welterweight.

Dale Brilliant As 'Y' Takes City Cage Crown

Gasmen Face Deficit In Cage Playoff

Knott and Elford will face a nine-point deficit when they tackle Duncan Deals in the second game of the lower island senior B men's basketball series at the High School gym tonight at 8.

Duncan Saturday handed K. and E. its first loss of the season, 39 to 36, at Duncan.

In the middle game on the card, Wally Yeamans' Unities will meet Duncan Taxielles in the second game of their lower island final. Unities won Saturday's contest, 54 to 30.

In the preliminary at 7 Tillcumus meet Saanich in a junior boys lower island playoff.

With an undefeated record Shawnigan Lake's Strathcona Lodge captured the annual girls' private school basketball series for the Crofton House Shield. The winners defeated each of their five opponents.

Crofton House and York House tied for second place.

Slender Vic Dale Saturday night carried the Y.M.C.A. into the Vancouver Island senior A men's basketball finals in the most brilliant display of his long career.

Rallying his squad from a three-point, first-half deficit, Dale provided the fuel, the spark and the fire in the second half as the defending champions came off the floor to spank Arrows, 47 to 35, in the fourth and deciding game of the best-of-five series.

The lean speedster turned in a wireless performance. He pumped home 22 points, most of them coming when needed most when he found the hemp for 16 markers in the final 20 minutes.

He grabbed rebounds at his own end, started and completed the "Y" scoring plays and checked the opposition into the boards.

It was Dale, Dale and Dale in the closing minutes of the game and when Art Chapman of the champions finally called a halt and pulled the veteran cager from the floor in the final minute of play, Dale received a tremendous ovation.

SPARKLES IN DEFEAT

But in this final game you couldn't overlook the performance of an even more seasoned performer, Ernie Fox of the Arrows.

Fox almost matched Dale's second half onslaught as he kept Arrows in the game with 13 points but he had little help. Arrows faded fast in the final frame after outplaying the "Y" for a 19 to 16 halftime lead.

The big break in the game came at the 10-minute mark of the period after the lead had changed hands six times.

Dale went in for a lay-up and was fouled by Duff McCaghey on the shot which was good and put the "Y" ahead to stay at 32 to 31.

A technical foul was called on McCaghey for talking back by referee Dick Donaghy.

Another technical was charged against coach Harold Turner of Arrows for getting into the act and that as far as the Arrows were concerned was the championship.

Dale hit his gift toss and Howie Tooby connected on one of the technical tries. Then followed baskets by Johnny Clark and Tooby, three in succession by Dale, another by Clark and a free shot by Peden as against two buckets by Fox and the game was over.

CITY TEAMS JOIN

No Goal Rulings Cost United Win

Breaks were something the Victoria United soccer team didn't get Saturday afternoon.

In the second half the city club appeared to have scored on two occasions only to have the referee rule against them. Result was a 1 to 1 deadlock with New Westminster Royals in their Coast League engagement.

Marking the return of inter-city football after a long layoff the match saw both clubs make many mistakes and tire badly in the late stages, although the visitors appeared in better condition than the United. Royals, bolstered by Dave Brown, Frank Ambler, Scotty Hunter and Dave Cairns, were fortunate to pull out a draw, getting the tieing counter just eight minutes from time.

After United had set up a 1 to 0 lead in the first half on a beautiful hook shot by centre-forward Tommy Bruce the Royals put on a sustained attack in the final 45 minutes. However, poor shooting and smart breaking up by the United back division held them out. Meanwhile, Tommy Bruce appeared to have scored when he hustled goalie Bernie Williams over the line, but Referee Hank Casillo ruled that Bruce had fouled.

ROUTLEY SCORES

After a lot of tougher shots had been cleared Royals tied it up, outside left Kip Routley skidded a ground shot past goalie Bill McAllister. In the closing minutes young Cedric Robb broke through the Royals' defence and drove a bullet shot at goal. One of the visiting backs cleared and it appeared to many that he put his fist to the ball, but the referee claimed it was a header and refused the goal.

Outstanding player for the United was Len Scott at centre-half. Given the job of shadowing the elusive Ambler, he never made a mistake all afternoon.

On the mainland St. Andrews and Vancouver City played to a 1 to 1 draw. Four teams are tied for second place, North Shore being in front as the result of a win over Nanaimo before play closed down owing to the weather.

Can you believe your eyes?

Probably you had to look twice at this picture to be sure you'd seen it correctly.

No wonder. For of course you know that, no matter how much houses may look alike, the families who live in them differ in countless ways.

No other family on your street has, for instance, exactly the same number of members at the same ages, the same income, tax bills, rent and other living expenses as your family. Nor can any of those families match your family's plans and dreams for the future—or its special needs for life insurance.

LIFE INSURANCE... Guardian of Canadian Homes

A message from the Life Insurance Companies in Canada and their Representatives

To help you meet those special needs, your life insurance company serves you through a representative. He is trained to analyze the problems you face in trying to provide security for yourself and your family. The income-protection plan he suggests is designed for you and you alone.

So when your life insurance man calls, confide in him. He's always ready to help you in any way he can.

More than a million Canadian families have benefited by the advice and experience of the modern life insurance company representative!

A Helpful Citizen in your Community

When a life insurance representative sells you a policy, he also helps to improve your community. For a large part of each life insurance dollar is put to work through investments to build schools, bridges, highways, industrial plants and many other projects that create jobs and make for better living.

You share in these improvements, made possible through the efforts of your helpful fellow-citizen—the modern life underwriter!

A Salute to a Neighbor

There have been unusual happenings out our way, first time a buck deer has swum across our bay. Due S.W. it was making a tack, must have wandered from Thetis... on the E. & N. track. As he swam past our wharf, he looked up at our house, as he streaked in the direction of the Six Mile House. Then there's the seagull, with desperate toil, battling for survival, all covered with oil. Using his feet, to shiver his head, then rubbing his body on the rock-bed. It tried to fly, but its tail wouldn't fan, went into a spin, and struck the hardpan. Then picked itself up, wouldn't be beat, hobbled over, and gulped the meat. Lovely stuff, 'twas their evening meal, a 3-lb. roast, of tender veal. This neighbor now watches for its daily arrival, and it's winning its battle of survival. A little more oil is shed each day, a little while longer, air-borne it can stay. But to the more fortunate gulls, this lady does shout, as they've got wise to this daily hand-out. But the convalescent seems to sense, and sits quite calmly, on the fence. This lady encourages it, as a good nurse oughter, as she spreads out the food, fills the pool with water. We too have a haven, if you're worried & sore, furniture is cheaper down at our store. In a few days more, thinks this nurse, her patient will be, free from this curse. And so I feel sure, that when he is free, and sails once more, out to sea. That no matter WHERE, he does fancy-room, he'll always think of next door, as his home. Yes, I'm sure in THIS, and in future Springs, he'll fly over "her" house and DIP HIS WINGS.

Square Dancing Scenes at Atlas

"Here we go with the old mess wagon, hind wheel broke and the axle dragging" . . .

Strange talk, this, unless you, too, have been caught up in the national craze for square dancing.

And most likely to promote that is "Roseanna McCoy," a saga of the tender love affair that set off the fierce feuding between Hatfields and McCoy's, in the 1880s, now being shown at the Atlas Theatre.

By ART STOTT

Like the haggis that lies too long in the stomachs of non-Scots, the debates that arise at Burns dinners linger on far beyond the time of usual digestion. Bob Smith, ex-alderman, is still unsettled by the construction placed on his remarks.

The point that rankles is the unkind suggestion of a Scots woman that people who say the things that Bob said should have their heads examined. Bob had merely voiced the opinion that without his loves Burns could never have given the world the songs he did.

Bob was thinking of the bard's affection for the daisy, and for the timorous mouse, as well as other human attachments that can be discussed before children without embarrassing them. But it appears that the popular construction placed on James Barke's "The Wind that Shakes the Barley," and its successors, has reduced the sentiment to its lowest common denominator—with emphasis on the lowest.

Such was not Bob's intention—any more than Barke's. That's one of the troubles with the magazine mind—that kind that takes an idea, colors it to taste, and then forces it into the conventional mold.

Since it became illegal to jaywalk in the downtown section, a new technique has been adopted by those who cross streets in the middle of the block. It's a combination football play and track practice. Competitors brace one foot against the curb, bend the knee of the other leg, check opposition on the road and then sprint.

This is not jay walking. It is broken-field running, with all the thrills of Russian roulette.

Modern methods of display have changed the attitude of the window shopper. Now the merchant presents his wares with a more calculating eye towards sales. The passer-by looks in, thinks how much he'd like to own the article on show, and the first impulse toward purchase is set in motion. In another day the showcase contained all manner of things. A man could saunter along, peer through the glass and let his fancy wander, stimulated by the oddments. Sure, the old window was a rat's nest, but it had a spiritual appeal lacking in the glossy invitations to spend that now beckon from the store fronts.

Just for a while the heads of some fuel-hungry Victoria families went pioneer. To the beaches they brought old crockets that sang a complaining song through the sand-embedded drift logs. It gave a fellow a chance to wear an old hat on the back of his head, a bright mackinaw coat and a pair of dungarees. The force of necessity left little time for the artistry of woodcutting. There was no selection of fir for the kitchen range, alder for the fireplace. There was no traditional talk by the elders on upturned blocks, no eye squinted over the Strait to gauge the weather, no weighty opinion on the salmon run that may be expected this summer. Dramatically, it was strictly a phony show. And if those who were compelled to stage it imagined for the time that they were enjoying the simplicities of a more spacious era, their aching backs the next day screamed a different story.

The driver of Cab 7 in the taxi fleet likes hospital insurance. No, he hasn't used it himself yet. When he fell out of the ambulance, he was covered by workmen's compensation.

"But take Atkinson, in our outfit. He's been in the hospital for two months now. Everything's lovely. He couldn't want better treatment. And he's improving faster because he doesn't have to worry about the bill. It would have taken him a couple of years to pay it off otherwise."

Does an automobile, driving through the downtown streets with a loudspeaker advertising a specific event, draw people to the attraction? Or does it create so much resentment among those who object to the blaring noise that it defeats its object? I'm not quite sure what the man speaking into the microphone, in the car that just passed this office window, said. I'm ready, like Voltaire, to fight to the death to let him say it—don't take me literally on that. But can't he speak a little more softly—make it more confidential and friendly?

Recovered Loot In Gang Round-up

Detectives Louis Callan, left, and Angus Munro check hundreds of dollars worth of clothing of juveniles rounded up during week-end.

Three Plead Guilty in Police Round-up Of Juveniles in Wave of Robberies

Court action started today against some of the gang of 'teen-agers rounded up during the weekend as a result of investigations into the wave of burglaries in the city and Esquimalt during the last few weeks.

Three youths, aged between 18 and 20, charged jointly with breaking and entering the premises of Page The Cleaner at 2929 Douglas Street on Feb. 7, pleaded guilty before Magistrate H. C. Hall in city police court.

They were Richard Gordon Gray, 919 Dunsmuir Street; Ernest C. Sanders, 1726 Haultain Street, and James Riley, Tillicum Camp.

Magistrate Hall remanded them to Thursday. He asked for a probation officer's report on each.

NINE NOW ARRESTED
Up to this morning nine boys, between 16 and 20 years of age, had been arrested by police as a result of investigations by Detectives Louis Callan and Angus Munro of the city plainclothes department.

The arrests followed the first apprehension made by Esquimalt

Oak Bay Workmen Start Work On New Water Main

With better weather favoring the job, work on a new 12-inch water main running north on Foul Bay Road from Cadboro Bay Road is now under way. A. S. G. Musgrave, Oak Bay municipal engineer, said today.

The main will connect with a new large main at Lansdowne and Henderson Roads. The larger main, in turn, will join a city main at Lansdowne and Foul Bay roads.

Under a recent agreement, Oak Bay will be linked with the Metropolitan Water Board, in which the city and all surrounding municipalities are participating.

Mr. Musgrave also reported that work is progressing on repairs to roads damaged by January's cold spell. Portions of Beach Drive in the Uplands and Cadboro Bay Road are still shut off except for essential traffic.

Against Circuses Held In Victoria

Opposition to circus performances scheduled to be held on Arena Way, May 15 to 24, as part of the city's May 24th celebrations, was expressed by Miss G. M. Webster, honorary secretary-treasurer of the Performing and Caged Animals' Protection League of Vancouver, in a letter to Mayor Percy George today.

Miss Webster wrote the society was opposed "on account of treatment suffered by the animals during training and the unnatural lives which they are forced to lead."

police last week.

It was reported this morning that a warrant has been sworn out for arrest of one more boy.

It was a good clean-up and will solve many of the crimes we have on the books for this year," commented Deputy Chief of Police Harry Mercer.

WEARING STOLEN CLOTHING

Det. Callan told the court he and Det. Munro arrested a half-breed, built Riley Saturday afternoon at the busy intersection of Blanshard and Yates Streets. Respected Sanders was later picked up in Oak Bay. Both, the officer said, were wearing some of the clothing taken from the cleaning firm. Small-statured Gray, the detective said, was already in custody pending charges prior to this.

SIX UNDER 18

Six of the youths are under 18 years of age and will come before Magistrate Hall in juvenile court.

The detectives said the arrests broke up a juvenile gang.

Six of them are reported to have been in on the Page break-in, five of them in the McKenzie, White & Dunsmuir safe-cracking which yielded $200 in cash.

The investigators said that the round-up has solved as many as 20 cases, including two cars thefts, entry of city and Esquimalt business premises and two successful safe-crackings and one unsuccessful attempt.

SEARCH FOR FLIERS GOES ON

Isle of Missing Men Has Air of Wartime Invasion

ABOARD H.M.C.S. CAYUGA, Princess Royal Island—At dawn each day the rugged shore of Princess Royal Island takes on the air of wartime invasion.

Search parties strike out into the dense forests of the island, while motorboats bring equipment and more rescue squads from Cayuga and the U.S. Coast Guard cutter Winona, which are anchored a few hundred yards offshore.

Sunday saw the greatest number of teams to date scouring the island. A driving blizzard hampered the hunt for the five missing airmen from the crashed U.S. B-36 bomber.

Visibility at times closed in to a few feet.

Searchers from ship's company of Cayuga, along with men of the R.C.A.F., Royal Canadian Artillery, U.S. Coast Guard and the Vancouver Alpine Club went on with the hunt until after dark, without success.

Lieut. Charles Pooler, who was rescued with a broken ankle by a Cayuga search party under Lieut. G. De Rosenroll, Calgary, Sunday was transferred from this warship to a U.S. Coast Guard PBV (Canso) aircraft and flown south to McChord Field, Wash.

Lost Jewels Located After 35-Day Search

A happy customer walked out of a downtown business office Saturday afternoon. Alfred Lock, a resident of Harbour Road, lost a string of brilliant set in black bone in the city the day of the big blizzard, Jan. 13. By the time another month had passed, Mr. Lock had lost all hope of recovering the necklace.

On Feb. 17, however, he received a telephone call from a woman who had read an ad in the Times want ad columns and believed she had found the necklace.

A meeting was arranged at the Times business office Saturday afternoon, with both loser and finder congratulating the Times for the main part it played in locating the two parties.

WANTS STREET TO CONTINUE GREEN, OPEN

Opposition To Proposal For Welfare House

Included in the number of requests to keep Pandora "still green and open," was one received at City Hall today from C. K. Morrison, 2220 Windsor Avenue.

He said he understood the principal argument for building a welfare house on the upper stretch of the Pandora Green was because the site offered easier digging.

"When one considers that Victoria is going to remain on the map for quite a long time, surely the matter of saving a few thousand dollars in the year 1950 should not loom too large," Mr. Morrison wrote.

He added, that unfair as it might be, the factor that some members of the public might hold such a move against the Community Chest in future campaigns, should not be entirely overlooked. He felt there was bound to be considerable opposition to the placing of a building on the site.

Igor Now Loading Large Cargo Here

A shipment of 1,400,000 board feet of lumber currently being loaded at Ogden Point by the Greek freighter Igor, which docked here Sunday.

Ken Briggs, of King Bros. shipping agents, said the Igor probably would finish Tuesday night or Wednesday and would proceed to sea, bound for the U.S. Atlantic seaboard.

At Cowichan Bay, Mr. Briggs said, the Italian vessel Louisa Pasteur today completed taking on 420,000 feet of lumber for South Africa. She left for Vancouver this afternoon and will arrive in Victoria for further cargo around March 4.

Caught Fire Stolen Auto

A fine of $50, or in default 15 days in jail, was imposed against naval rating Delmar R. Brown, H.M.C.S. Athabaskan, by Magistrate H. C. Hall in city police court today.

The fine was paid. He pleaded guilty to taking a car owned by Mrs. H. J. Martin, 1330 Pembroke Street, Sunday without the owner's consent.

Sailor was arrested by Constables Bonar L. Hannay and George Buckle.

After the officers stopped the car it caught fire but was soon put out by firemen called to the scene.

Too much liquor was reported to be the cause of the accused's predicament.

Mary-Ann Voege, Sidney, was treated at Royal Jubilee Hospital for an injured right knee suffered at the Memorial Arena Saturday night, city police reported.

Gets 90 Days For Beating A Woman

A three-month jail term was given Albert Sayer, French-Indian, by Magistrate H. C. Hall in city police court today for assaulting Dorothy Sedwick.

Sayer told the magistrate he had a job to go to and would like to get out.

"I can't deal so lightly in a case of this nature," said the magistrate and gave the 90-day jail term.

Ottawa Model To Be Opened By Governor

The traveling exhibition of the plans for the development of a national capital at Ottawa will officially begin its tour of western Canada here when Lieut. Governor Charles A. Banks opens the 5,000-square-foot display in the T. Eaton Company store at 530 this afternoon.

The exhibit will be open to the public for two weeks.

Consisting of major plans, enlarged photographs and realistic scale models, it traces the history of Ottawa from its founding as a military construction camp in 1826, its development as a lumbering and commercial centre and its growth since it was selected by Queen Victoria in 1857 to be the capital of Upper and Lower Canada.

The scale models in the exhibit, largest of which took three years to build, show in detail the long-range proposals for the re-development of the capital and the surrounding area. Some of the projects are not expected to be completed for another 75 years.

The display is one of practical city planning, the principals of which can be applied to any city. Walter Bowker, director of information for the National Planning Committee, said today. With a staff of four assistants, he is touring the country with the exhibit.

Taking part in arrangements locally is city park administrator W. Herbert Warren, member for B.C. on the Federal District Commission, the nationally representative organization made responsible by Parliament for carrying out the plans.

Pays $5 For Failing Report Address Change

A fine of $10 was imposed against motorist R. L. Robert, 1319 Bay Street, by Magistrate H. C. Hall in city police court. He pleaded guilty to a charge of failing to promptly register a change of address with the B.C. Motor Vehicle Branch.

IN CRITICAL CONDITION, Robert Poulton, 8, only child of Mr. and Mrs. Leslie J. Poulton, 1015 Caledonia Avenue, is in Jubilee Hospital with fractured skull as result of injuries suffered in collision Saturday with car on Caledonia. City police say he walked into side of a moving car driven by Arthur Barry, 3533 Cook Street.

Esquimalt Centre To Ask For Land For New Quarters

The Esquimalt Community Centre, presently located at 1123 Colville Road, is anxious to move closer to the business hub of the municipality.

Negotiations now are proceeding for acquisition of a building suitable for conversion to community needs. Directors of the centre would like to have the building transported to property owned by the municipality on Fraser Street, next to existing tennis courts.

T. H. Carson, secretary of the centre, has written Esquimalt Council, asking the Fraser Street property be loaned to the centre for its development program.

In his letter to council, Mr. Carson says new facilities are needed by the centre, particularly for teenage activities.

Request of the centre will be considered tonight when the Esquimalt Council meets in the Municipal Hall at 8.

Painter's Death Ruled Accidental

Accidental death was the verdict returned this morning at an inquest on Ernest Stadler, 52, of 1223 Lockley Street, who was killed in a fall from a 150-foot chimney he was painting last Thursday afternoon.

According to evidence presented by Dr. E. L. McQueen, Stadler's death was caused by a fractured skull and possible fractures of the neck and back.

Witness Alfred H. Nehring said Stadler had replaced the steel cable supplied by the B.C. Electric Company with his (Stadler's) own rope, which was described by Coroner E. C. Hart as being made of "sisal" which was said to be strong when new, but which weakened quickly and unnoticed.

The jury suggested the compensation board make a thorough inspection of painters' ropes and cables from time to time, and urged the users of such to be educated on the types of rope used.

Stops Car Theft

Don Gordon, 854 Yates Street, Atlas Auto Sales, failed to catch a fleeing youth he had interrupted in the act of stealing a car Sunday night. The boy ran through to Johnson Street and disappeared. Police searched the area, without results.

AND BUSINESS IS BOOMING

Directness is considered an essential in modern-day advertising by the people who claim to know about such things.

An apparent adherent to this principle is the operator of a Pandora Avenue amusement spot. One of those places where your picture is taken, developed and printed all within 15 minutes, the sign in the window gets right to the point:

"Come in and be taken for 25 cents."

To Join Search If Control Ship Needs Her Help

The recently-recommissioned Canadian destroyer Sioux sailed from her Esquimalt base early this afternoon with essential equipment requested by H.M.C.S. Cayuga at the scene of the search for five men still missing after bailing out of their U.S. B-36 bomber over Princess Royal Island last Tuesday.

Included in the equipment being taken to the north coast island by the modernized Sioux is a power cutter for landing search parties.

If requested by Cayuga, Sioux will remain in the area to render assistance.

FIRST OPERATION

It will be the first operation for Sioux since her recommissioning last month. She is the first Canadian naval vessel to be completely modernized, and since she returned to active service has engaged only in working-up exercises in local waters.

Sioux' commanding officer is Cmdr. David M. Groos of Victoria who commanded the destroyer Crescent when she went to China a year ago.

Sioux should reach Princess Royal Island Tuesday morning, provided predicted gales do not hamper her. She is taking the outside route up the west coast of Vancouver Island in order to make the best possible speed, a navy spokesman said.

Meanwhile, the auxiliary naval tanker Dundurn was expected to join Cayuga sometime this afternoon. She left Esquimalt Saturday with supplies and fuel for the destroyer, control ship in the search.

Rescue operations were intensified today as 150 Canadian sailors and U.S. Coast Guardsmen were put ashore to search for the five missing airmen.

EIGHT TEAMS ASHORE

Naval headquarters at Esquimalt reported that Cayuga sent ashore eight rescue teams this morning, four on Princess Royal Island, and four on Ashdown Island, a small island adjacent to the northwest tip of Princess Royal.

Belief that some of the missing crew members might be down on Ashdown Island was expressed by the rescued captain of the big, six-motored bomber which crashed with three engines aflame.

U.S. Coast Guard cutters which have sent search teams ashore are the Winona, the Citrus and the Cahoon.

Teams from Cayuga have established contact with Indian trappers who already have made a preliminary search of the 45-by-25-mile Princess Royal Island and who are most familiar with the terrain of it and surrounding islands.

Sues Auto Firm For $1,222 After Crash

Damages amounting to $1,222 are claimed by Thore H. Sharok, fisherman, 1551 Fifth Street, Sidney, in his civil action against the Sangster's Veterans' Auto Mart, 1824 Quadra Street. The plaintiff, in his suit, claims the firm failed or delayed in insuring a car recently sold to him and which was subsequently in an accident.

Greens For Spring Now On Many Counters, U-m-m Good!

By PENNY SAVER

Green! Green! Green!—and I don't mean as in seasick, but as in vegetables that tempt the strictest budgeter... I wondered what all the commotion was at a grocery counter the other day. Seems people would work their way over to the counter, take a look then give a broad ecstatic smile.

That was enough for me. With two "excuse me's" and a few "pardon me madams," I wormed this curious self into the crowd and, lo and behold, the herald of spring itself... Green Peas! They're reasonable for the first time in, too, only 21 cents a pound.

Green onions, the kind you can eat if you're spending the evening in seclusion, are selling for 2 bunches for 13 cents. The bunches get larger every time I see them.

Talking of large bunches, parsley at 8 cents a bunch, and about all you can get into an elastic band.

Red mesh, not the evening bag variety, has been made up into convenient bags to hold 72 cents worth of grapefruit. You save between ten and 16 cents in this nearly eight-pound container.

You'll like the looks of those new white figs, 23 cents a package and black figs, 19 cents a package, that grace a few counters. They make such an appetizing dessert or breakfast fruit.

Rhubarb for your family's favorite pie, is still sliding down the price scale. It's now 19 cents a pound.

Ever tried the delicious little cream cup cakes at one of our dime stores? It'll be pure whipped cream that you wipe on your sleeve, too!

Want to be among the first women who will dawn a spring bonnet? You can do it for approximately $2.50. At least the one I made up was that reasonable.

Counters are filled with trimmings to delight every feminine heart. Flowers in all shades of red, blue, mauve and yellow, can be bought for as little as 29 cents a bunch! The straw bonnets in full head size as well as the popular "half hat" are now available in grey, gold, black, pale blue and navy blue.

By the way, if you noticed in the "In Step With Style" column a week or so ago, you'll know that navy blue is out to hit another all-time high in the world of fashion.

To make up a hat all on your own, Mabel all you have to do is buy the straw hat, that's $1.79, add flowers to your liking, guess 39 cents worth will do us, and to complete our inexpensive chapeau, we top it off with a yard of veiling, worth 29 cents.

What color veiling will we take, dearie? There's white, green, black, brown, mocha and mauve. Say, did you notice the vells already made-up for 39 cents? Oh! Let's settle for the mauve, it always makes me think of Easter. Fun, huh?

Cactus plants! Now there's a little plant you can throw in a pot, avoid for months at a time, and yet enjoy its beauty. You can't keep 'em down. You'll go head over heels when you see the new Mexican type ware in the form of apples, bananas, and pineapples. The colors are as bright and warm as the South American country itself, and with a little cactus 'stook' in they're a knockout. Hasta la Vista, folks! (That may mean you are stepping on the petunias, for all I know.)

YOUR BABY AND MINE

By MYRTLE MEYER ELDRED

SUCKING THUMB NEED NOT BE ENCOURAGED NOR FORBIDDEN

It should be apparent to anyone that if the baby is to live, one of his foremost and keenest zones of influence must be the mouth. It is the tendency of all children to put anything, eatable or otherwise, into the mouth and suck upon it.

In the chance movements a baby is bound to make, the hands come most often in the region of the mouth, and so babies develop the habit of sucking on fingers or thumbs, or, if not those, then on sleeper sleeves or blankets close to their faces.

It has been found that when a child's sucking desires are well satisfied during the taking of food that he has less desire to suck upon accessory objects. When a baby can eat whenever he desires, no matter how often during a day, there is less apt to be any type of sucking habit develop. But many babies still eat only once in four hours and satisfy their appetites with a free-flowing bottle which demands little but a desultory punching in order to bring the milk into his mouth.

Our leaflet No. 55 "Thumb Sucking" may be had by sending a stamped self-addressed envelope with your request to Myrtle Meyer Eldred in care of this newspaper.

Roberta Ray Dons Navy Blue For Marriage To David Ward

Family members and intimate friends gathered in St. George's Church, Cadboro Bay, Feb. 13, to hear the vow exchange between Roberta Hunter Ray, daughter of Mrs. Thomas Scott, North Quadra Street, and David Forsyth Ward, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas F. Ward, 2594 Musgrave Street, on Feb. 14.

For the afternoon service the bride wore a navy blue taffeta frock, complemented with white-trimmed navy blue cloche, and accessories en tone.

She carried a white prayer book, mounted with orchids and freesias; bebe orchids were knotted in the long cascading streamers.

Her "something old" was a gold pendant and chain worn by her great-grandmother on her wedding day.

A member of the Victoria Girls' Drill Team, the bride was attended by a sister-member, Miss Eileen Mary Leckie.

With her afternoon dress of navy blue figured taffeta, Miss Leckie wore a small navy hat trimmed with pink. In her Colonial bouquet were pink tulips and blue and white hyacinths.

Brother of the groom, Thomas Sterling Ward, attended as best man, and William F. Anderson was usher.

Following the ceremony performed by Rev. William Hill, the couple received guests in the Princess Charlotte Room, Empress Hotel. James Kemp proposed the toast and Mrs. Kemp presided at the urns. Baby orchids topped the two-tier cake.

After a honeymoon on the mainland, Mr. and Mrs. Ward will make their home in Victoria.

DOROTHY DIX

Dear Miss Dix: I am a boy of 16 and not bad looking, but for some reason I do not make a hit with the girls. There are other boys who are not as handsome as I am, but the girls run after them.

Answer: A boy's looks, provided he is clean and well pressed, have nothing to do with his popularity with girls. It is only on the screen or on the stage that the he-beauties make a hit with women. In real life they prefer men who are just manly-looking and who do not poach on their reserves of beauty.

So, son, don't depend on your looks to get you anywhere with girls. Cultivate an agreeable personality. Read and study, so that you will have something interesting to talk to them about. Learn how to dance well. Be good-natured and reasonable and don't try to high-tail girls and look as if you were paying one a great honor when you took

Woman Serves Naas River Territory As Nurse, Doctor and Radio Operator

By ELIZABETH FORBES

"Just because a person lives at the 'back of beyond' is no reason why he or she should be 'bushed,'" said Mrs. Jessie Richardson Leite, a recent visitor in Victoria from the Naas River country.

Then she went on to describe the comforts of her home at Kincolith on the Naas, the garden where flowers grow in profusion, and vegetables, in a short season, attain a size almost beyond belief.

"But don't get the idea I do the work in that garden," she said; "it's my husband's hobby. I merely enjoy the results of his labor."

Mrs. Leite's husband is postmaster at Kincolith.

And she is nurse, doctor, mother, confessor, and radio operator to the people who live in that territory.

Officially, she has been in charge of the Kincolith Nursing Station since 1942, as a member of the field staff of the Indian Health Service, Department of National Health and Welfare.

TRAVELS MANY MILES

From Kincolith she works out through a large territory that, in the warm season, reaches as far north as Hidden Inlet, near the Alaska boundary. In this territory are four different tribes of Naas Indians, numbering well over 1,000 people.

In summer, during the fishing and canning season, this number is more than doubled.

At times Mrs. Leite has been the only white woman in the district. But that doesn't seem to have worried her.

"I love my work," she says. "The people are fine and up-right, and in many cases, very well educated. They are all good to me."

On her visits to different parts of the territory Mrs. Leite has traveled by gas-boat, fish boat, fish packer and even by a row-boat.

At Greenville on the Naas River, where slack tide reveals a shoreline of soft, oozy mud, she has many a time been carried ashore, "piggy-back" by some stalwart Indian.

HER BABIES

And in the winter months, called up perhaps in the middle of the night, she has floundered along on foot, through knee-deep snow, to some tiny home on the edge of the river, to be greeted by barking dogs, and an anxious masculine voice urging her to "hurry, hurry, baby be come soon."

"You've got to have a sense of humor at a time like that,"

MRS. JESSIE RICHARDSON LEITE

Mrs. Leite said with a smile that crinkled the corners of eyes in a network of laugh wrinkles.

"Delivering babies is included in my work, along with general nursing and surgical cases," she explained, "I've got so many babies on the Naas, I've lost count of them."

Her regular uniform for traveling from place to place is a gabardine slacks suit, brown or slate blue. She has surgical aprons and gowns for use in her dispensary at Kincolith and she always carries an outfit in bag to wear when delivering babies or in attending serious bed cases.

With her nursing duties she lists that of radio operator in the district. For the only radio phone within miles is in her dispensary.

RADIO TELEPHONE

She's been a licensed operator for over two years now, and it's her duty to send and receive telegrams, take phone calls, and talk to the outside world when the occasion arises.

She has also controlled a measles epidemic at Greenville of 67 cases over the radio phone.

"Pulled them all through, except three," she said proudly. She has had a threatened typhoid epidemic too, but fought it successfully.

She has performed minor operations. And has diagnosed and treated almost all the diseases, major and minor, that from time to time afflict the peoples of the north.

Nearest hospital is at Prince Rupert and particularly serious cases are "taken out to Rupert" by boat. Serious tubercular cases are also sent out, although Mrs. Leite conducts the regular T.B. tests herself, and handles the lighter cases.

So much do the Indians like and respect her, they have accepted her as one of their own and the Wolf Tribe of the Mishga Indians, in ancient ceremonial manner, named her Princess Side-sky, which means "high about all eagles."

Her husband has been named Chief Gaube by the Eagle Tribe, the name meaning "strong but quiet." Their son, now 21, was also made a member of a tribe when he was a young lad.

Mrs. Leite has spent the past few months on sick leave, in Prince Rupert, and more recently in Victoria, where she has been staying at the Empress Hotel.

"But I'm much better in health now," she explained, "and my holiday is about over."

"I'm needed upon the Naas River and I'm eager to get back again to my work."

London Shares Interest In City Wedding

London, England, the home of the bride's mother, shares interest with this city in the marriage of Elizabeth Matilda Clark and Jacklin Lee Wilkinson. The bride, daughter of Mrs. B. Anslow, and groom, whose parents are Mr. and Mrs. E. Wilkinson, 101 Maddock Avenue, exchanged their vows before Rev. F. Pike, in St. Luke's Church, Cedar Hill Cross Roads. (Photo by Joncas Studio.)

American Beauty Tones Foil For Bride In White Taffeta

A trio of maids in classic gowns of American Beauty toned velvet were in the bridal retinue of Edith Wilson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. Wilson, New Drydock, Esquimalt, when she repeated wedding vows with Albert John Hilton, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. S. Hilton, 1040 Pembroke Street.

The early evening ceremony Saturday was read by Rev. H. Creal in St. Paul's Naval and Garrison Church, Esquimalt. Daffodils, lilies and pussy willow formed the setting.

Escorted by her father, the bride wore white moire taffeta, misted to finger-tip length with sheer veil crowned by a coronet headpiece.

The American Beauty roses, intermingled with freesias in her arm bouquet, set the color note for the formal gowns worn by maid of honor Miss Mary Stevenson, cousin of the bride; Miss Barbara Atkins and Miss Evelyn Hilton, sister of the groom.

Their headpieces repeated the rich jewel tone, and they carried pale pink carnations and freesias. Best man was Howard Slang, Arnold Masters and Leslie Wilson, brother of the bride, seated guests.

A reception followed at Louheed's Banquet Club. C. Butler gave the toast to the bride. Mr. and Mrs. Hilton, now in Seattle, will return to live at 1049 Pandora Avenue. The bride's going-away ensemble included a pale blue gabardine suit, navy blue gabardine topcoat with corsage bouquet of roses, and reptile shoes and bag.

TRADITIONAL GIFT

Heirloom Garnet Locket Groom's Gift to Saturday Bride Joyce Mawle

A garnet pendant, traditional gift of Justice family grooms to their brides for the past several generations, was also the gift of Rodney Phillip Justice to his bride, Joyce Mavis Mawle, when they married Saturday evening.

The groom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Justice, came from Duncan to attend the nuptials in Metropolitan United Church.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. J. Mawle, 3890 Savannah Avenue, was given in marriage by her father, with Rev. A. E. Whitehouse officiating.

Daffodils, plum blossoms, pink and white carnations and pussy willow created the spring-like setting for the fair-haired bride.

Her traditional satin gown was enriched with off-shoulder décolletage of imported French lace, its delicate beauty repeated at the pointed sleeves and in the small, pointed peplum over a graceful skirt.

Clouds of illusion veiling misted floor-length from a coronet of orange blossoms, and the bride carried red roses and white freesias.

Mrs. H. J. Page, the former Gladys Baxter of this city, came from Vancouver to be honor matron. Her turquoise satin gown had tiny puffed sleeves and full skirt gathered at the back, and she carried yellow carnations.

Beverly Justice was best man for his brother and a second brother, David, was usher with Ken Mawle, brother of the bride. Windermere Hotel was the wedding reception scene where

British Parties Stage Last-Hour Drive For Votes

Brace Against Possible Surprises Before Feb. 23

LONDON (AP)—Britain's election campaign moved into the stretch drive today with a statement by Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin that his Labor regime is discussing steps with the United States to get economic assistance when the Marshall Plan ends in 1952.

Meanwhile, both big parties braced themselves against last-minute manoeuvres aimed at swaying the crucial on-the-fence voters between now and the balloting on Thursday.

Door-to-door canvassing efforts and speech schedules have been stepped up throughout the country by candidates seeking the 625 parliamentary seats.

Bevin made his U.S. aid announcement Sunday night before a political audience in suburban Croydon. He said:

"We are already discussing with the United States the situation which may arise (when the Marshall Plan ends). We are taking every possible step in order that there will be no economic crises and catastrophe and to ensure that we move steadily over from one system to the other, which is what America wants to see."

During the week-end both Labor and Conservative campaigners accused each other of promoting stunts in an effort to stampede the voters. The Labor speakers concentrated their fire on Winston Churchill, who spearheads the Tory campaign.

Churchill's proposal that the West should undertake high-level talks with Russia drew the heaviest fire. Bevin called it a stunt.

The deputy prime minister, Herbert Morrison, assailed the Churchill plan as "badly thought out" and said "it was a pity to drop this proposition into an election campaign."

Conservatives followed their usual policy of refraining from political campaigning on Sunday. Labor, Conservatives and Liberals all were guarded in their election predictions, lest too great a show of confidence might give the voter the idea the election is in the bag and his vote unimportant.

Both Labor and Conservative campaign officials say they expect to win a "working majority" in the House of Commons, while Liberals express confidence in their ability to spring a surprise.

In a speech Saturday night, Prime Minister Attlee put full blame on Russia for the continued cold war, and said the western powers stand ready to discuss all "outstanding issues" with the Soviet Union—through the medium of the United Nations.

He was replying to Winston Churchill's plea for new high-level talks to bridge the gulf between the east and west. Attlee made the final broadcast speech for the Labor Party before Thursday's general election. The Prime Minister said that if Russia had accepted western proposals for control of atomic energy, "this cloud of fear would have been lifted from the peoples, but Russia would not accept."

Naval Flier Killed At Sea

OTTAWA (CP)—Naval service headquarters announced today that Lieut. Fry Peever, 25, of Lynn Valley, B.C., was killed Saturday when his Firefly fighter plane crashed into the Atlantic Ocean during exercises off the east coast of South Carolina.

The aircraft crashed into the sea shortly after taking off from the deck of the aircraft carrier Magnificent 220 miles northeast of Charleston, S.C.

An observer, Chief Petty Officer Peter Arnold, 27, of Toronto was rescued. He was flying in the air observers' seat at the rear of the pilot's cockpit.

He was picked up by the Canadian destroyer Micmac, accompanying the Magnificent.

Saturday night his argument that "we ought to close no door on the attempt to establish some understanding" between east and west.

But in the meantime, he added, the United States and Britain should not give up the atomic bomb until there is an effective agreement to make sure nobody else could make or use the A-bomb.

He said Russia is maintaining a gigantic army and has "far more than 25,000 warplanes in commission."

Only great quantities of atomic bombs possessed by the United States could prevent a Russian advance "to the Channel coast of France—except, of course, their (Russia's) goodwill, their good faith, their genial outlook upon mankind. And I would not be prepared to trust to that."

1,300 SHUNNING BARBERS

Oberammergau Villagers Prepare For Passion Play

OBERAMMERGAU, Germany (AP)—The bearded villagers of Oberammergau are donning their biblical robes for the first dress rehearsals of the 1950 Passion Play.

In the chill little theatre of this snow-frosted village, performers gather nightly to read their parts in the play portraying the life of Christ.

The 1,300 village men have shunned barbers for months. Each must have a flowing beard when the first performance is presented May 21. The cast numbers 1,700, including women and children. Each performance lasts eight hours. Full-dress rehearsals begin in mid-March.

"I have 1,200 conversational exchanges to learn," says Anton Preisinger, the 37-year-old innkeeper who will play the role of Jesus Christ. "Of course I do not follow the part exactly. I remember some monologues from my Sunday school studies as a youth and from previous Passion Plays. I will use some of these instead of the exact text."

The village elders had to go to the Bavarian state government for funds to finance the play. The profits from the last one in 1934 were tied up in worthless Hitler reichsmarks. Actors get no pay for the arduous grind of two to three performances a week for four months. Carpenters, painters, theatre cleaners and costume seamstresses work months without salary.

The village stresses the religious aspect of the play and scorns theatrical ballyhoo, but 400,000 Christians from all over the world are expected to swarm into this secluded Bavarian village between May and September for the play.

Even when dried indoors... EVEN WITHOUT RINSING

Surf gives you
Sweeter Washes

...whiter, brighter to look at!
...fresh-air-sweet to smell!

"ORDINARY" CLEAN

Though you may think your wash is perfectly clean, a faint "musty" odor often betrays the fact that some remnants of dirt, grease or suds are still clinging to the fibres. Rinsing won't get rid of this... but Surf does!

SURF CLEAN

Even without rinsing, Surf removes every last trace of dirt, grease (and suds)... every trace of odor, too! That's why it gets your clothes so white, so bright... so soft... so wonderfully sweet to smell!

Surf contains an amazing detergent which removes not only every last trace of dirt and grease... but all "dirty clothes" odor, too. Gets clothes sweeter-smelling... cleaner than you've ever known them before.

SURE-CLEAN CLOTHES are so deep-down clean that they not only look snowy white! Rainbow bright! They smell pure and wholesome... sunshiny-fresh... blown-in-the-sun sweet! SWEET... with the sweetness that proves how clean they are!

And that's not all! They smell that way even if dried indoors! And they stay that way longer... retain that

"new-washed" sweetness even after weeks in the linen closet or bureau drawer!

And that's not all!

You don't even need to rinse your Surf-clean wash! It will still be the cleanest, sweetest smelling wash you ever had.

First, because Surf has the magic power of grabbing and holding the dirt in the washwater, so when you wring out the water you actually wring the dirt out with it. Out goes every vestige of soil and grease... to leave your wash really clean. At the same time, Surf's special purifying ingredient takes out every last trace of "dirty clothes" odor!

When you don't rinse your Surf-clean wash, this purifying ingredient goes on working in your clothes—to keep them sweeter longer! (If you do want to rinse, add a little Surf to the rinse-water.)

Surf suds are rich and long-lasting. In hardest water, they do 3 times the work of ordinary soaps. They're safe, too... Surf is all you need for everything from the grimmest overalls to your sheerest lingerie.

All the Surf your grocer now has in his store is the new "no-rinse" Surf... especially developed for "no-rinse" washing. Get some today...

If it's Surf clean, it's really clean... EVEN WITHOUT RINSING

Neo-Nazi Germans May Lay Way Open To Russian Camp

4 Million Seeking To Build Militant Nation

By RICHARD O'REGAN

FRANKFURT, Germany (AP)—Some 4,000,000 Germans with Nazi leanings may be laying the groundwork for another Hitler who could, ironically, lead his followers right into the camp of Red Russia.

These are West Germany's Nationalists, who despise the new-born West German Republic. They represent about 12 per cent of West Germany's 31,000,000 eligible voters, and are being openly courted by the Soviet Union.

Former publisher of Vancouver Daily Province and now resident of Salt Spring Island, O. Leigh Spencer was among the passengers arriving home on the Aorangi.

Labor Officials Called Raiders, Stool Pigeons

TRAIL (CP) — Executives of the International Union of Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers (C.I.O.) during the week-end described parent-body officials who had expelled the smelter group as "stool pigeons," "cannibals" and "raiders."

The accusations were levelled at a rally which preceded a mine, mill conference on wage policies which opened today.

The L.U.M.S.W.U. officials denounced policies of the Canadian Congress of Labor and the Committee for Industrial Organization. The C.I.O. and C.C.L. expelled the smelter union last fall after a hearing of charges that it was Communist-dominated.

Speakers at the rally also attacked the parent-body policies which gave permission to other affiliates to take over the smelter-union jurisdiction. The United Steelworkers of America is engaged in a battle to absorb the 5,000 men centred in this mining district.

If you've never been to Ottawa here's your chance to visit the Capital ... past, present and future. If you know Ottawa it will be doubly interesting.

Over two and a half years of painstaking craftsmanship has gone into the construction of this amazingly accurate and detailed model of the National Capital of the future.

Photo at right shows finishing touches being applied to the grounds of Parliament Hill. Like the other buildings on the model, the Parliament Buildings are exact in detail, and in many cases architects' plans were used for authentic reproduction. All the buildings are carved in solid wood, painted afterwards to resemble the types of stone and other material used in the construction of the actual buildings.

Violence In U.S. Coalfields As Men Ignore Orders To Work

100 Armed Men Do Much Damage

PITTSBURGH (UP)—Striking United Mine Workers, defying John L. Lewis' "official" order and a government injunction, kept the soft coal mines closed today. Picketing flared into violence.

At Barbourville, Ky., a band of 100 men carrying weapons raided a processing plant of the Richland Coal Co., beating five workers and wrecking machinery and office property.

Pickets also were reported active in Pennsylvania and West Virginia. A mine engine room County, W. Va., Sunday. Pickets closed a Nicholas County mine where the U.M.W. local favored ending the two-week general strike.

All major soft coal mines were closed except a few whose operators have met the union's demands and some manned by the progressive miners union. The nation's coal stockpile dropped to less than a week's supply with a cold wave aggravating shortages in the east.

Police said the Kentucky raiders traveled in about 25 automobiles with license plates smeared to prevent identification. All the men beaten required hospitalization and two were reported seriously hurt.

Company officials said that the pickets asked, "Have you signed up yet?" When the reply was "No," the attack started. Telephones were torn from walls and trucks were used as battering-rams against equipment and overturned.

The miners were determined not to work until they get a contract from the operators although the union faces contempt of court action for violation of a Taft-Hartley law injunction outlawing the strike.

U.S. Not To Build Asiatic Alliance

COLOMBO, Ceylon (AP)—The United States intends to avoid intruding in domestic affairs of the Asiatic countries it aids in the stemming of communism, Philip C. Jessup, United States Ambassador-at-large, said today.

"That was not the intention, veiled or otherwise, of American interest in Asia," Jessup said. United States aid, he said, will be given at the request of governments which need and ask for it, wherever communism's menace hinders national aspirations.

THE HOME NEWSPAPER IN A NEW DRESS

Top Typographical Consultant Re-styles Make-up of The Times

Victoria's Home Newspaper, The Times, appears in a new streamlined dress today. Its typography, the most modern in the world, has been designed to satisfy the strictest optical tests.

Gilbert P. Farrar, foremost typographical consultant on this continent, was engaged by the management of The Times to design the new format, which means its shape and type display.

Farrar started a newspaper revolution 12 years ago when he re-styled the Los Angeles Times.

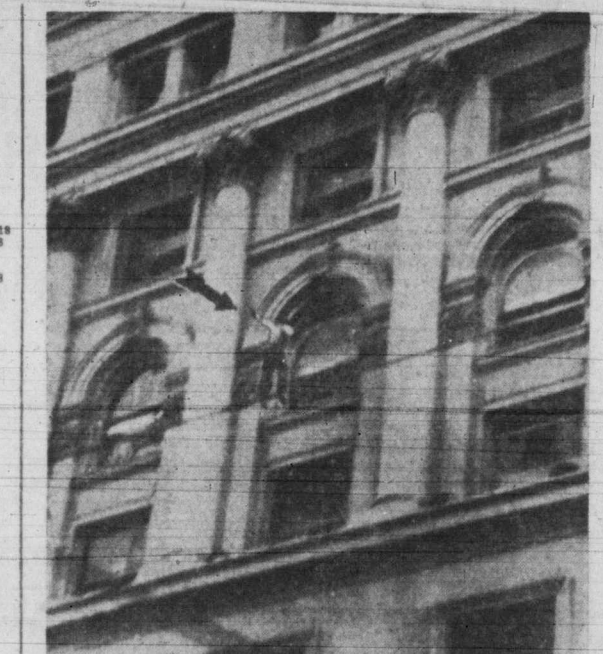

The following spring the Farrar streamlined Times won the Ayer Award, top typography prize in the United States.

Since then he has, single-handedly, changed the face of the leading newspapers of the United States and a number in Canada. He has re-designed the make-up, headlines and news presentation of over 50 leading dailies.

Farrar's main aim in re-designing a newspaper is easy readability. The "package" your news comes in is mighty important to your eyes. Function makes beauty. The functional job of type is to be read. The best type is read with the least effort.

The Times is the result of his 40 years of research. He taught type usage at New York University for 10 years and is a recognized authority on the history and use of type on this continent. He knows newspaper production inside out. When he wants a new kind of lay-out, the theorists sometimes tell him his ideas are impossible, because his ideas are so advanced. He goes to the composing-room and out comes the "impossible."

No-Confidence Motion Made In House By Drew

OTTAWA (CP)—George Drew, Progressive Conservative leader, this afternoon moved a want-of-confidence motion in the government, charging it with failure to, among other things, take adequate measures to curb espionage in Canada.

Mr. Drew wound up an 80-minute address with an amendment to the motion calling for adoption of the reply to the Speech from the Throne.

He accused the government of: 1. Failing to take adequate measures to preserve and expand markets for Canada's surplus farm, forest, sea and mining products and to deal with the problems of increased unemployment and reduced income to Canadian farmers and other producers.

2. Failure to take steps to inaugurate a national contributory system of old-age pensions without the means test.

3. Deliberately violating the law by illegally suppressing the report of the Combines Investigation Commissioner on the flour-milling industry for 10 months, including the period of the general election campaign; thus denying to Parliament information essential to the performance of its duty and the maintenance of responsible government.

4. Failure to take adequate measures to curb espionage and other "harmful activities of Communists in Canada."

"For these reasons," the motion said, "we respectfully submit that Your Excellency's advisers (the government) are not entitled to the confidence of this House."

All amendments to the motion calling for adoption of the address in reply to the Throne Speech are considered as testing the confidence of Parliament in the government.

The life of the government hangs on the vote. Approval of the motion constitutes defeat of the government.

7, One Sick Flee From Fire

QUYON, Que. (CP)—Seven persons, one of them stricken with poliomyelitis, fled into temperatures nearly 26 degrees below zero early today when a sudden fire destroyed a frame farm house.

Harry McRae, owner of the house, dragged his 17-year-old son, Clifford, ill with poliomyelitis, and 2-year-old Frankie, for a quarter of a mile on a toboggan to a neighbor's house. Mrs. McRae and the other children followed on foot in the biting cold.

Mr. McRae found smoke billowing from the attic of the home when he awoke today. The house was destroyed.

Quyon is on the north shore of the Ottawa River, about 30 miles due west of Ottawa.
